GIRL DASHES TO DEATH DURING HER STARTLING PERFORMANCE

Jeannette Lawrence Is Killed in Fire Fighting Scene at Exposition.

FALL CRUSHES SKULL

Horror-Stricken Audience Sees Young Woman's Brains Knocked Out.

THIRTEENTH TIME IS FATAL

Before an audience watching the realistic fire-fighting scene and rescue act at the Pittsburgh exposition last night Miss Jeannette Lawrence, one of the people to be rescued from the burning building by firemen, fell out the third-story window of the burning house to her death. The scene was enhanced by the girl descending head first and the audience was horror-stricken. The left side of the girl's head was crushed and she died shortly after being placed in the ambulance called from the Homeopathic hospital.

The act is given by the "Fighting the Flames Company" of New Jersey. The company employs about 60 people in the act and came here for the opening of the exposition last Wednesday from Coney Island, N. Y. At 8:30 o'clock last night the act opened with an explosion in a row of tenement buildings, constructed for the show. Miss Lawrence was in the third-story room and the flames were shooting through the building when the firemen arrived. The Pompier corps scaled the outside of the building with scaling ladders and on reaching the roof fastened their ropes.

Girl Was Too Quick.

Then John Hearn, a member of the Pompier corps, fastened the hook at the end of a rope to his belt and slid down the rope to the window in which Miss Lawrence, attired in a white gown, was waiting to be rescued. Hearn threw one of his legs over the window sill and was reaching out with one arm for the girl. In an instant and before Hearn could prevent the movement, he says, the girl threw the weight of her body against his shoulder. The force of the contact turned him over completely and the girl fell out of his arm and descended, headlong, to the wooden floor 25 feet below.

Hearn, who has done the same act over 2,000 times, said he had no opportunity to save the girl, as her act was to throw her arms about his waist, while he was to close his legs about her form and in this manner they were to descend. Hearn said his hand became tangled in the rope and prevented him making an effort to hold her.

When Hearn was turned over by the girl's body striking him the other members of the corps quickly grasped the rope and drew him up to the window, where two other men caught him by the legs and dragged him through the window. Hearn's escape from suffering the

STATEMENT MADE BY MANAGER A. R. RODGERS

A. R. Rodgers, manager of the "Fighting the Flames Company," after Miss Lawrence's body had been removed from the Exposition building, stated that the death of Miss Lawrence was largely her own fault. Rodgers said she had been warned repeatedly that if she did not be more careful when Hearn was preparing to rescue her from the window she would not be allowed to continue in that part.

Rodgers stated that the fire fighting show would not be stopped because the accident had occurred. "The show and rescue of a woman from the third-story window will be continued just as soon as we can get another girl for the place," said he. "She will be brought from Coney Island, N. Y., just as soon as we can get her, which will be in about three days."

The rescue act has been done over 2,000 times in the last two years by the company showing now at the Exposition, Rodgers said, and there has never been an accident during the two years.

United States Marshal S. P. Stone.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR S. P. STONE

MANY WITNESS THE ACCIDENT

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BRIDGEWATER, PA., Sept. 4.—United States Marshal Stephen P. Stone and Grant Grim, both of Beaver, had a narrow escape from drowning through their canoe overturning in the Beaver river late this afternoon. A fireman's carnival is being held here and a canoe race was to have been one of the events, but was called off after the accident. A thousand persons gathered on the river bank to see the races witnessed the accident.

Mr. Stone, who was the companion of the late Senator M. S. Quay on many canoeing and fishing trips and who practically lived for a month in a canoe in the Maine woods with Senator Quay the summer before the latter died, felt a longing for a canoe ride when he saw the frail craft lying on the beach before the race. He and Grim borrowed one and started out.

Less than 100 feet from shore the canoe suddenly turned over. The men grasped at the overturned boat and held on until help arrived. This was not long in coming. Joseph Stone, son of Mr. Stone, and Charles Taylor leaped into another canoe and were up to the overturned boat in a moment helping the men until the "Linnebrink," a gasoline launch, towed them ashore.

Mr. Stone, who is a good swimmer, was none the worse for the ducking, but the escape of Mr. Grim was close. He cannot swim and as the canoe turned over his foot became entangled in a rope. He grasped the rope and by it pulled himself to the canoe and held on to it while at the same time he stood in the loop of the rope about his foot which no doubt saved him from drowning.

A few minutes before this another accident had stirred the people at the carnival. Fire broke out in the residence of John Warner. While the firemen were fighting it a hose broke and 100 people were drenched.

CAPSIZING OF CANOE COSTS THREE LIVES

DETROIT, Sept. 4.—Percy Pound, aged 15, son of a prominent Detroit attorney, and two young ladies, Miss Maloney and Miss Anne Waldron, were drowned by the upsetting of a canoe in the American channel of the Detroit river, near Belle Isle bridge, this evening.

Byron Mills, the fourth member of the party, swam ashore after making a vain effort to save one of his companions. The accident was witnessed by many people on a passing ferry and on Belle Isle bridge. Both of the young men were students at the University of Michigan last year.

BOY CHASING FLY BALL COLLIDES WITH A TRAIN

While chasing a fly ball that was knocked out of an open lot in Fourth Street, Braddock, last night, George Fletcher, aged 13, of 725 Fourth street, ran into the engine of a moving train on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks. The hand that was stretched high to catch the ball was taken off by the wheels of the locomotive and the lad was otherwise badly injured. He was taken to the West Penn hospital.

MR. BRYAN'S FRIEND CALLS ROOSEVELT FOR NEXT TERM

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Sept. 4.—(Special.)—Alexander Troup, the closest friend of William Jennings Bryan in Connecticut, said in a speech at the Sperry banquet tonight that if President Roosevelt is not a candidate of the Republican party in the next campaign he will be a candidate of the cattle people.

SIGHT-SEEING STRANGERS IN AUTO CAR EXPLOSION

Gasoline Tank Lets Go at Bellevue and Flames Do the Rest—Close Call for Chauffeur and Fair Tourists.

A large White steam touring car, owned by the Keystone Automobile Company, was almost totally destroyed by fire in Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, yesterday afternoon and the chauffeur and two women occupants had a narrow escape from being seriously burned. The women were visitors in this city, stopping at the Hotel Henry. They had hired the auto for the afternoon and were bound for Sewickley on a sightseeing tour.

When the machine reached Hawley and Lincoln avenues in Bellevue, it is said the gasoline tank exploded and set the whole machine aflame. The tank is situated just beneath the front seat where the chauffeur was sitting. He stuck to his post long enough to apply the brakes and stop the machine.

The women became terror-stricken and one of them jumped to the street, but was not injured. An alarm was turned in to the Bellevue fire company on Hawley street, near the scene of the accident, and the company responded. When it arrived the flames from the burning gasoline were leaping 20 feet in air. Water was played on the blaze for over half an hour before it was finally extinguished. Then the automobile was towed to a nearby livery stable almost a total wreck and the three tourists took a street car for the city.

LABOR ENJOYS ITS HOLIDAY

The Annual Celebration Participated in by Thousands.

HONORS TO OHIOANS

Buckeye Delegation Given the Leading Place in Parade in Pittsburgh.

GOMPERS' STIRRING SPEECH

The workingmen of Allegheny county celebrated Labor day yesterday. There was a big street parade and a meeting in Luna park, but although the parade and meeting brought out thousands of workingmen and thousands of their friends, there were other celebrations participated in by workingmen greater in numbers than those who took part in the festivities in Pittsburgh. The miners, carpenters and plumbers, who number 12,000 men, preferred an outing or a picnic.

The marchers in the parade numbered 2,952 by actual count. What they lacked in numbers, compared with previous Labor day parades, they made up in appearance. The route of the procession was lined with thousands of spectators.

The parade started promptly at 10 o'clock, turning in from Market street up Fifth avenue. First came a squad of mounted police, commanded by the assistant superintendent of police, Edward Kennelly. Then came the chief marshal, Henry W. Legleitner and his aids. A visiting delegation of watch-case makers, 100 strong, from Canton, O., came next, having the place of honor in the line. The remainder of the procession was made up as indicated in the advance program published in The Sunday Gazette.

Ironworkers Take Lead.

The parade traversed Fifth avenue as far as Grant street, turning to Grant as far as Diamond, went out Forbes street to Bellefield avenue and up Bellefield to Center avenue, where it was reviewed by the chief marshal, staff and guests and then disbanded.

The structural ironworkers' union had the most men in line, its representatives numbering 750. The painters, decorators and paperhangers' union turned out 300 men. M. O'Sullivan, the president of the sheet metal workers' union, marched at the head of his organization. The members of Lodges No. 108 and No. 321 of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, traveled in automobiles. Switchmen's Union No. 128 carried a working model of a din-

SUCCESSOR NAMED FOR MR. LOOMIS

Robert Bacon to Take His Place and He Gets No Appointment.

CABINET OFFICERS OPPOSE HIM

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—After the steam yacht Alice, belonging to Mr. F. D. Underwood, president of the Erie railroad, had quietly landed Mr. Robert Bacon at Sagamore Hill today, the appointment of Mr. Bacon as assistant secretary of state, to succeed Francis B. Loomis, was given out at the executive office in the village. Before any questions could be asked the president's secretary said:

"This appointment was decided upon before Mr. J. P. Morgan visited the president."

It is understood President Roosevelt will make no effort to find an ambassadorship for Mr. Loomis. The cabinet officers are unanimously opposed to such an appointment, and the president will probably give way to their opinion.

Mr. Bacon was until recently a junior partner in the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., and has long been a personal friend of the president. When Mr. Roosevelt intervened in the great coal strike of 1902 Mr. Bacon was the Baron Rancko of the Wall street interests. It was through him that the president brought pressure to bear upon the capital that stood behind the mine owners.

The appointment of Mr. Bacon was decided upon before Mr. Morgan began his visits to Sagamore Hill, at a conference between the president and Secretary of State Elihu Root, before the latter left for Labrador.

Mr. Bacon left after luncheon at Sagamore Hill by the private yacht landing in the cove and avoided all interviewers. He will not take office until October 1, when Mr. Root will take up his work in Washington.

SNAKE EGG RECORD IS BROKEN AT LAST

While at work at Warrick's mill at West Newton yesterday Thomas Webster, a farm laborer, discovered a nest of copperhead snake eggs. More than 100 eggs were found, believed to be the record for snake eggs. A short time previous to this Webster killed a female copperhead and seven small snakes. The eggs were placed on exhibition in a store window. Several people have recently been bitten by copperhead snakes near West Newton.

Baku Tartars Attack Troops.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 5.—Advices from Baku say that the firing again commenced Sunday, the Tartars attacking the troops with greater desperation. Tatars for the killed or wounded according to these accounts, exceed 300. Prince Nakhichevan was wounded.

A. G. MARSHALL UNDER ARREST

New York Police Capture Him While in an Apartment Hotel.

GONE TWO WEEKS

Frank D. Dunbar, His Partner in Insurance Swindle, Has Not Been Caught Yet.

COMPANIES HAVE NO ASSETS

After evading the police of the United States for nearly two weeks, Arthur G. Marshall, who is wanted in Pittsburgh with Frank D. Dunbar, on seven charges involving embezzlement and conspiracy to defraud, was yesterday arrested in New York at the request of Superintendent McQuaide of the Pittsburgh detective bureau. Marshall and Dunbar did business in this city for some time as A. G. Marshall & Co., and also as officers and directors of the Duquesne, Lafayette & North American Mutual Fire Insurance companies, which recently were closed by order of court and for which a receiver was appointed.

The informations were made at different times during the last two weeks before Alderman McMasters and his constables were given the warrants to serve. Detectives were then put on the trail, but their efforts were not successful and then McQuaide was appealed to. Three days ago he notified the New York police to look for Marshall and Dunbar.

The New York police learned that Marshall was living with his wife and 3-year-old daughter in the Sharon, an apartment house in Manhattan, named New York. Detective McConville, who was assigned to find the men, last night went to the hotel to get Marshall.

Took the Fire Escape Route.

Rings at the doorbell of the apartment failed to bring a response, but the officer was sure Marshall was inside, so he went outside, secured a ladder, climbed to the fire escape of the first floor and then made his way to the third floor. Entering by a window he surprised Marshall and the child, and placed Marshall under arrest without difficulty.

Marshall was taken to police headquarters but he refused to make any statement to the police. He was placed in a cell and is held on a charge of being a fugitive from justice. He will be held till an officer from Pittsburgh arrives in New York.

Marshall and Dunbar, through the three insurance companies, are charged with embezzlement and conspiracy by the receiver, Harry E. Hallock, and Attorney Frederick L. Kable, who represents one of the four. Marshall and Dunbar are alleged to have fleeced out of his money. They exercised the books of the companies found in the insurance companies' offices in the Washington National Bank building, Fifth avenue and Washington street, after the fugitives had fled from the city. The books show that the insurance companies through agents throughout the United States, have written over $1,800,000 in insurance policies. Since the departure of the two fugitives some money has been received from agents who had written the insurance before the companies were exposed in court.

Worked the Mining Game, Too.

Marshall and Dunbar, working under the firm name of A. G. Marshall & Co., will also have to answer to criminal money from residents of this state by inducing them to invest in mining companies promoted by them. The books found by the receiver and attorney show that Marshall and Dunbar ran together the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Company and then sold a large block of the stock to the insurance companies, thereby what cash the companies had in their treasuries and their notes for the remainder without interest.

The promoters also organized several other companies, and in each was established there sold large blocks of the stock of the companies to the Duquesne, Lafayette and North American companies, in exchange for which the companies had and took their notes for the remainder.

The three companies, composed of Frank Marshall and Dunbar were the Iowa and Oregon, published Saturday

TURNS BANK ROBBER TO GET EVEN WITH BEEF TRUST

Former Prosperous Cattleman Holds Up Financial Institution and Takes Money He Claims Belongs to Him—Escapes With the Cash.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

GUTHRIE, OKLA., Sept. 4.—Crushed by the beef trust, Thomas Jordan, formerly one of the wealthiest cattlemen in the Indian territory, is accused of having turned bank robber to get money which he asserts was due him.

After his failure Jordan, with one of his cowboys, rode into Collinsville, I. T., and held up the bank. It is asserted, getting away with all the funds in sight. There is no clue to his whereabouts, as he swept out of town on his bronco before officers could be put on his trail. A search was made of his old ranch, but only 15 horses were found, and it is evident he does not intend to return.

Jordan controlled thousands of acres in the Osage and Cherokee nations for many years, leasing the land for grazing from the interior department. The price of cattle had been forced down lower and lower in recent years, until Jordan was forced to negotiate large loans to conduct his business, and became involved financially.

Jordan shipped 30 carloads of cattle to Kansas City soon after July 1 and sold them. Claims were filed with the commission house against the cattle and some of the money was thus tied up. A portion of it, $1,800, was sent back to the First National bank in Collinsville.

Jordan disappeared, leaving many unsettled claims. Nothing was heard of him until last week, when he suddenly returned to his ranch. And it was then he had made good the claims and intended to resume his cattle business.

The cattleman went to the bank, according to its officials, and demanded the $1,800 held for unpaid creditors. The bank officials refused and Jordan took a man named Hatts, a former employe, returned to the bank, drew his revolver and covered the cashier. He ordered the latter to stand back, while Hatts gathered up the cash. The cashier saw Jordan was in earnest and obeyed. Hatts got the money and then the two cattlemen rode out of town.

statements showing that in May, 1904, the companies had assets of $214,223.66. In the same statements they also published that the companies had stocks and bonds, par value, worth $190,000. When Attorney Kahle and Receiver Holman investigated the standing of the companies they found they had no assets and the stock and bonds were worthless.

Many Victims Heard From.

After the fraud was given publicity through the newspapers by the men who had been given charge of the affairs, Attorney Kahle received letters from many places in Pennsylvania and other parts of the country asking for information concerning the companies and also telling how they had been induced to take out insurance. Several holders of policies came to Pittsburgh to consult the attorney.

When the insurance companies bought the worthless stocks and bonds of the companies promoted by Marshall and Dunbar the books show the companies were in debt about $16,000 to holders of policies whose property had been destroyed by fire. These losses were never paid.

While Marshall was residing in Pittsburgh he and his wife lived in style in outer Fifth avenue and each was frequently seen upon the public drives of the city. The offices maintained by Marshall and Dunbar were at one time luxuriously furnished, but shortly before they left "upon their vacations" much of the luxuriousness disappeared.

CHARTER FIGHT STARTS AT HARRISBURG TODAY

Pittsburgh Railways Company, Flinn Interests and Fording-Morse Syndicate Are All in It.

All is ready for the charter fight of the rival Pittsburgh tunnel, subway and surface traction interests. In three joint hearings to be held this afternoon at the office of the secretary of the commonwealth, at Harrisburg, the attorneys for the companies interested will fight out their claims. It is probable that much litigation will result, no matter what the decision may be.

The first joint hearing will be on the applications of the Pittsburgh Railways Company interests for extensions in certain streets in Oakland and the East End, the Fording-Morse interests having entered a protest against extensions being granted on these streets as the latter seeks charters there for themselves.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company interests likewise have a protest entered against the granting of the Fording-Morse charters. The Fording-Morse syndicate is also opposing the Flinn interests in the application for a charter for the Fifth Avenue Tunnel Company, as it is claimed that this company which seeks a charter under the old tunnel act is not authorized to take the place of the subway which the Fording-Morse people wish to build under the act of 1901. It is said the Fording-Morse people plan to apply for an additional subway charter, paralleling the company's railroad tunnel.

THREE MEN HIT BY TRAIN AT TUBE CITY

Rear of Cut of Freight Cars Strikes Wagon—One of the Victims May Not Live.

Three men were injured at Tube Works alley, McKeesport, late last night, by a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie freight train striking the wagon in which they rode.

Louis Rosenfield, 30 years old and married, of 519 Mulberry street, McKeesport, received internal injuries and had his nose fractured. He may not live.

Steve Wadasca, 25 years old, of McKeesport, had his left leg fractured and was severely bruised.

Andrew Denczak, 40 years old, of McKeesport, received several cuts and contusions. The three were removed to the McKeesport hospital.

The accident happened just as the men, who were driving a wagon belonging to Samuel Firestone, a wholesale liquor dealer, attempted to cross the tracks from Fourth avenue at Tube Works alley. A Lake Erie shifting engine was pushing the cars. The brakeman attempted to stop the train and yelled at the men, but the accident came before the wagon crossed the track. The wagon was pushed along the tracks several rods. Rosenfield was picked up from under one of the cars. The horse escaped injury.

PASSENGERS ARE JOSTLED.

One Is Injured in a Small Wreck at Demmler.

When one of the Versailles accommodation trains of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad sideswiped one of the company's fast freight trains at Demmler about 10:30 o'clock last night the passengers were badly shaken up, but only one was injured, and that only slightly. The passenger engine, one passenger coach and three freight cars were thrown from the tracks and somewhat wrecked. Within three hours after the accident happened the tracks were again clear for traffic.

The accident happened just as fast freight train No. 80 was pulling to the westbound siding to let passenger train No. 33 from Versailles pass. Before the freight had cleared to the siding the passenger train crashed into the side of one of the cars. The angle was such as to hurl the engine from the track and push the freight cars aside, the front passenger coach also leaving the track. The engine crew escaped.

AUGUSTINA WAS NOT BEAUTIFUL

HE SAW HIGHBALLS IN ACTION

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WOOSTER, O., Sept. 4.—With the opening of the sixth week of the Taggart divorce trial the entire day was taken up with evidence offered in rebuttal by the plaintiff, Capt. Elmore Taggart. The most important witness called was Maj. Charles E. Newberry of Pittsburgh, who roomed at the Taggart house in Manila. He said that Augustina, the Filipino maid, with whom witnesses for the defense associated Taggart's name, smoked cigars and chewed tobacco. He laughed at the suggestion of intimacy.

He was in the house when Capt. Taggart is charged with slapping his wife for entertaining a drunken officer. Newberry denied that these ever occurred. The other witnesses called were residents of Orrville who testified to admissions made by "Billy" Taggart, a relative of the captain's in regard to his love for Mrs. Taggart, and about her sending him money and telegrams.

Carl Ludwig of Orrville took the stand and stated that about a year ago "Billy" Taggart showed him a telegram from Mrs. Taggart and said: "I love Grace and Grace loves me, and I don't give a d— who knows it."

Maj. Newberry, who gave his present residence as Pittsburgh, took the stand. He was detailed as inspector of the police in Manila at the time he met Capt. and Mrs. Taggart. He stated that Capt. Taggart was elated when his wife came to join him at Manila. "It was a happy meeting," said Newberry.

"How did Capt. Taggart treat his wife and children?"

"Always as a husband and father should."

Augustina Was Not a Beauty.

The major then told of his rooming at the Taggarts. He said he never saw any keys to the doors in their house and that he never saw any door in the house locked. Never heard Capt. Taggart swear at Mrs. Taggart. In a conversation between Mrs. Taggart and the captain he heard the latter speak loudly to her. This was at the time of the Bash incident.

Did you hear or see Capt. Taggart slap Mrs. Taggart?

Never heard or saw anything of the sort. At supper Mrs. Taggart appeared as pleasant as ever.

Maj. Newberry said he believed he heard Taggart tell his wife that he preferred not to have her go with Bash.

Will you describe Augustina to the court?

She was a middle-aged woman, very homely, smoked cigars, chewed tobacco and went in her bare feet. She would not make a leading lady in a ballet.

On the occasion of Capt. Mitchell's calling on Mrs. Taggart the afternoon of the cotillion to engage dances, was he intoxicated?

Yes; he was under the influence of liquor. What did the captain say to her about it?

He said he didn't like it, and he did not want those officers getting drunk down town and coming to his house to sleep off their drunks.

Never Saw Captain Drunk.

Did the captain ever get drunk in Manila?

No, sir; I never saw or heard of his being drunk.

On the night of the dedication of the bridge did the captain come home drunk and sleep on your bed?

No, sir; he was perfectly sober when he came home.

When he came home that evening was he so drunk that Mrs. Taggart held him up against the wall and called Culver's attention to his father's condition?

No, sir; that never happened.

Did you ever hear Capt. Taggart advise Miss Shields against associating with Maj. Love because he was a married man?

Yes; I heard the captain reprimand her for it.

Did you ever know of Capt. Taggart having any intimacy with Augustina?

No. Such a thing would have been impossible, answered the major with a laugh. On cross-examination the witness said he was not a sound sleeper.

Maj. Newberry said that he on several occasions went out for drives with Mrs. Taggart and that he never heard any vulgarity from her.

Seen Highballs in Action.

Major, do you know enough about a cocktail to know whether it will intoxicate or not?

Well, I have seen them in action several times.

On the evening that Taggart and Bash had the argument in front of the Taggart house on their return from the drive on the Dunetta, Newberry was in the house. He said he heard the conversation between the captain and Mrs. Taggart after they entered the house, but he did not hear any slapping or fighting.

Mrs. Taggart was generally pleasant to her husband. I never saw her drunk nor smoke cigarets, the witness said.

If there was any act of impropriety on the part of Mrs. Taggart in Manila I wish you will state it to the court.

I do not know of any impropriety on her part. I think she was guilty of being indiscreet in going out with men whom her husband had forbidden her to associate with.

Would it have been possible for Capt. Taggart to come home drunk on the evening of the bridge dedication and lain on your bed up to 9 o'clock and you not know it?

No, sir. It could not have been possible.

"Cousin Billy" In Again.

Henry Hamilton, editor of the Orrville Crescent, said on the stand that Billy Taggart gave him an advertisement in a saloon in Orrville for a diamond ring which he had lost, saying the ring was worth $500 and belonged to Mrs. Taggart. Billy took the stand and denied that he said the ring belonged to Mrs. Taggart.

Ralph Mish of Orrville testified to talking to Billy in the postoffice one day, when Billy said:

"I don't see why Grace don't write."

Mish asked him why he was so anxious, and he replied, "I need the money." A few night later Billy flashed a roll of bills and said, "I landed her."

Miss Rose Goff, who had charge of the room work in the Hurd house at Orrville in 1900, during the time Mrs. Taggart roomed there, said that when Mrs. Taggart moved out she found nearly a bushel of empty whisky and beer bottles that were not in the room when Mrs. Taggart moved in.

Frank Gardner, a barber, of Orrville told of Billy displaying a roll of money in the shop and saying: "As long as I stand in with Grace I don't have to work."

It is believed the closing arguments will begin tomorrow afternoon.

WOULD NOT TAKE A DARE.

Patrick Malie Jumps from Bridge and Has Close Call for Life.

Patrick Malie of the Thirty-third ward, well known as a pugilist and politician, leaped from the railing of the Point bridge Sunday night while crossing that structure in company with some friends. One of the latter dared him to jump from the bridge, and Malie made the leap rather than be considered a quitter. He was rescued by Bernard Enright, who secured a skiff and went to Malie's rescue. When taken out Malie was in a weakened condition, but refused to go to a hospital and was taken to his home.

Three Committees Meet.

The board of stewards, permanent annuity fund committee and the directors of the Pittsburgh district church union of the Methodist Episcopal church, held meetings in the chapel of the Methodist Book building yesterday afternoon. All three sessions were devoted to reports which are to be made at the conference in Beaver, beginning October 4.

key engine mounted on a wagon. The hoisting engineers had a float representing several of their craft operating a Westinghouse gas engine. The bridgeworkers had a floral representation of a bridge span in course of construction.

The marchers did not enter Luna park in a body, but after the parade disbanded many of them went in to attend the meeting at which Samuel F. Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor, was to speak. The park was already crowded with visitors and for several hours after the parade the people flocked through the entrance.

Luncheon was served in the large restaurant in the park to the Labor day committee and invited guests and afterward the party adjourned to the band stand, whence the speakers addressed the audience.

N. S. Glass, chairman of the Labor day committee, presided over the meeting. He first introduced the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, who introduced President Gompers. In the course of his address Mr. Gompers said:

The labor union stands for justice and right. It is not destructive; it is constructive. It purposes to go deep down into the abyss of misery and despair and give to the millions down there a realizing sense of their rights and duties and to cause them to place themselves by the side of their organized fellow workmen, for right and duty. The union purposes to secure better homes for the workingman, his wife and children; it purposes to extend its power, so it can take the children from the profit helis into the sunshine and the playground and the school and give them the opportunity to grow into capable men and women.

Referring to the activity in the anthracite coal regions of John Mitchell, the president of the United Mine Workers, Mr. Gompers said:

There is no danger that the miners out there will go back to the old conditions, when men lived on charity half the time, although they were working, when homes were dark with misery, until organization was brought to them. The misery that prevailed in the anthracite region will never again be introduced there. If it ever becomes necessary to take up the cudgels in defense of labor in the anthracite region the organized workingmen of America will take them up.

We want unity. This Labor day parade was not representative of all the great organizations in your city. We want Labor day not only celebrated but sanctified by our fealty. We want to see you united, joined in one phalanx; we do not want even the appearance, much less, the fact of disunion.

The Rev. Dr. Young advised the workingmen to make their organizations stronger than ever. This closed the speaking program, and the remainder of the day was given up to pleasure-seeking.

The United Mine Workers had meetings and parades at Monongahela, Castle Shannon, Grove City and Roscoe. The carpenters held a picnic in Burton's grove, near Sandy Creek, and the plumbers had an outing and barbecue at Aliquippa park. In McKeesport a parade of 1,000 men of various unions was reviewed by Mayor Falkenstein.

WILL DECIDE IT TODAY.

Compers and Committee to Complete Arrangements for Convention of the Federation of Labor.

The committee having in charge arrangements for the convention of the American Federation of Labor to be held in Pittsburgh in November, will meet today with Samuel F. Gompers, president of the Federation. At that conference it will be decided in what hall the convention shall be held, and arrangements will be made for hotel accommodations and for printing the proceedings of the convention.

The committee was with President Gompers yesterday most of the day, but there was no time to discuss the business of the convention. After the close of the Labor meeting in Luna park Mr. Gompers and the local labor leaders spent the rest of the day in relaxation. Mr. Gompers did not leave the park until late at night, having entertained himself during the afternoon and evening by visiting the amusement enterprises and observing the crowds drawn to the park by the Labor day celebration.

GRAND ARMY IN DENVER.

National Encampment Gets Under Way, and City Welcomes the Grizzled Heroes.

DENVER, Sept. 4.—The first official business of the thirty-ninth National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic was transacted today, when the national council of administration met and selected E. B. Stillings of Boston, for junior vice commander-in-chief to fill the vacancy caused by promotions due to the death of Commander-in-Chief Wilmon W. Blackmar.

The streets were thronged tonight, and the strains of martial music were heard throughout the downtown quarter. Drum corps and brass bands followed by grizzled veterans marched to and fro between department and national headquarters while sightseers filled the sidewalks and congested the streets. The streets were brilliantly illuminated, and the national colors in all sorts of forms flew from every building in the business quarter.

TODAY AND TOMORROW LAST DAYS TO REGISTER FOR FALL ELECTION

Under the law it is the duty of every register assessor in the county to be at the polling places today and tomorrow for the purpose of adding the names of qualified electors to the voting list or striking off the names of persons who have died or removed from the district. The assessor must be present from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m. In precincts having temporary polling places the assessor must remain at his residence during the hours noted above. This will be the last opportunity to register in time to receive a vote at the November election.

GREAT PARADES IN MANY CITIES

WOMAN SHOT IN CHICAGO

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—The efforts of the police to keep the streets clear for the Labor day parade resulted in the accidental wounding today of Mrs. Anna Hopkins during an exchange of shots at Michigan avenue and Madison street, between the police and a man who gave his name as William Laska. When Laska was ordered back into the crowd he drew a revolver and began shooting. Men in the crowd rallied to the aid of the policeman and Laska, after being severely beaten, was arrested. Mrs. Hopkins was hit by a stray bullet, and was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

The union labor parade numbering many thousand marchers, was the chief attraction. The parade was halted when it was discovered that a teamster's union was marching with a non-union band. Committees went into conference on a street corner. The trouble was adjusted and the parade resumed.

NEW YORK—Fifteen thousand workers marched under streaming umbrellas in New York Labor day parade today. The members of the Waitresses' union, who had prepared to march attired in white dresses and shoes and carrying parasols, were so determined to march that it required a decree of the Central Federated union declaring that it was unbecoming for women to tramp in sloppy streets, to deter them. A part of the observance was the laying of the cornerstone of the new temple of labor on Eighty-fourth street.

BOSTON—A downpour of rain and the wet and muddy condition of the ground necessitated the postponement of the majority of events which had been arranged in celebration of the holiday in New England. The parade here was a disappointment to the leaders as thousands of union members declined to walk in the rain.

WASHINGTON—A labor excursion was run to Marshall Hall, where an address was made by T. V. Powderly, formerly commissioner of the bureau of immigration. All of the government departments were closed.

PHILADELPHIA—More than 10,000 men paraded and held an outing at a Delaware river resort.

TOLEDO—Three thousand men were in line in the parade this morning. This afternoon the union men held a monster picnic.

CINCINNATI—The labor unions had a monster parade, numbering 15,000.

INDIANAPOLIS—Labor day was celebrated by the largest parade of the kind ever seen here.

DETROIT—Labor day in Detroit was cloudy and threatening, with a chilly west wind blowing, but the weather did not deter several thousand members of the labor unions from appearing in the labor parade.

OMAHA—A speech to union labor by William J. Bryan was the principal feature of the exercises in Omaha.

ST. LOUIS—The parade represented all the lines of trade and industry, comprising 17,000 men.

ST. PAUL—There was an uncommonly large parade of labor organizations.

KANSAS CITY—Twelve thousand workingmen passed in parade here today.

SEATTLE, WASH.—The newly completed $50,000 labor temple was dedicated today immediately following the Labor day parade.

SAN FRANCISCO—Labor day was celebrated with two large parades. One of the processions was that of the Building Trades' Council. The other was composed of the unions affiliated with the Labor Council.

NEW ORLEANS—The sun shone brilliantly today, between light showers which marred to some extent the success of the Labor day parade. Seventeen unions participated.

ATLANTA—Magnificent weather contributed to the success of Labor day here. The morning was given to a parade.

MOBILE, ALA.—Five thousand men were in the Labor day parade here. The whites were followed by negro unions in the line of march.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—Owing to dissensions, organized labor paraded in two separate sections. The Trades Council held one parade and the Carpenters' union another.

NORFOLK, VA.—The feature of Labor day was a parade by the labor unions participated in by about 2,000 persons and characterized by many attractive floats.

SAVANNAH, GA.—Labor day was observed with more enthusiasm than since the day was made a legal holiday by the state. There was a parade and an exhibition of sports.

MEMPHIS, TENN.—Labor day was celebrated with a parade in which several thousand union men took part. A picnic was held.

SCRANTON, PA., Sept. 4.—Rain delayed for two hours, and materially decreased the size of today's elaborately planned labor parade. In the afternoon, when the weather became fine, thousands flocked to Rocky Glen to hear Congressman Hunt of Missouri and John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers. There was great disappointment when Mr. Mitchell, who was suddenly called to Philadelphia, did not appear. Practically every industry was shutdown, the stores were closed, and, more than in any former year, the day was observed as a holiday.

EAST LIVERPOOL—Labor day was celebrated in this city, all stores and factories being closed. In the morning there was a parade with all the unions of the city, 45 in number, in line, about 4,000 participating. John Neary acted as chief marshal. The procession was led by a band, police and city officials and the Trades and Labor council. In the afternoon a dozen athletic events for prizes took place at Rock Springs park.

BUTLER, PA.—Two thousand workingmen and three bands formed the Labor day parade. Joseph Woods of the Hamilton bottle works was grand marshal. At Almeres park athletic contests were held and the below unions were addressed by Attorney Livingston McQuistion of Butler, President H. A. Rivers of the National Green Bottle Blowers' association, Philadelphia, and the Hon. J. McDonald of Philadelphia.

GIRL DASHES TO DEATH

same fate as the girl was due to the presence of mind of his fellow firemen and who was most exciting to those who were watching the real tragedy being enacted.

Miss Lawrence was aged 25, and has been boarding at the house of John Burke at 832 Penn avenue. When she entered the employ of the fire-fighting company she told the manager, A. R. Rodgers, that she had been a vaudeville performer and did a "sister act" with her mother, who died recently. Since then she has been out of employment.

She had been employed in the street scene till last Friday, when the girl who is employed to be rescued from the third story sprained her ankle. Miss Lawrence, according to the management, asked to be given a trial, and as she proved she could do the turn safely they doubled her salary and put her on. She had done the act 12 times, but the 13th time proved fatal to her. The manager instructed Deputy Coroner John Black to turn the girl's body over to an undertaker.

Hearn lives at 209 East Sixty-ninth street, New York, and is the son of a veteran fire-fighter of the New York department. He said his father previous to his death was one of the instructors of the Pompier corps of the New York department. He was taken to Central police station last night, where, with A. L. Hagen, proprietor of the show, he gave his statement of the accident to the police and was allowed to go. The inquest will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

After the accident the show was continued at regular intervals, but the rescue act from the third-story window was discontinued because no one could be got to take the dead girl's place.

YELLOW FEVER CAUSES FIVE MORE FATALITIES

Doctor Is Arrested for Failing to Report Cases, Causing Others to Be Prompt in Making Returns.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 4.—The yellow fever report for today is: New cases, 18; total to date, 2,052; deaths, 5; total, 263; new foci, 16; cases under treatment, 271; discharged, 1,460.

Two causes contributed to an increase in the number of new cases of yellow fever today. One was the fact that there is never a complete cleanup of cases on Sunday, leaving some to find their way into the Monday list.

The other was the arrest and incarceration of Dr. Philip Berge, on a charge of having failed to report two Chartres cases. Dr. Berge was arrested at midnight on Saturday, spending 14 hours in a cell. Rather than undergo a similar experience, physicians were particularly prompt today in reporting cases, 17 doctors appearing early today at Dr. White's office.

SAVED BY A WOMAN.

She Prevents a Gang of Boys and Men from Mobbing a Crap Shooter.

One little woman, unarmed, thwarted the purpose of a gang of amateur crap shooters yesterday afternoon, who were chasing a negro. The crowd had run the negro on the porch of the little woman's dwelling at 2025 Fifth avenue, and were keeping him busy dodging bricks and stones when the woman appeared and with arms and voice drove the negro's assailants away.

The negro, John Summers of Wylie avenue, had been shooting craps in Aliquippa street with a gang of boys and men and in the course of a dispute struck one of them. The entire crowd gave chase and the negro ran until exhausted, when he took refuge on the porch.

A motorman of a passing street car saw the fracas and told Officer John Hardiman, who was standing at Fifth and Craft avenues. The officer caught the next in-bound car and after a chase succeeded in landing his man, who had about made his escape aided by the timely intervention of the woman. He was held at No. 2 police station as a suspicious person.

FINDS ROBBER AT WORK.

Etna Man Attacked in His Home on Returning from a Wake at a Neighbor's.

While John Kronish of Etna was attending a "wake" at the home of a neighbor early yesterday morning, his home was broken into and searched. About 2 a. m. Kronish on entering the house heard a noise upstairs and called out to know if a man there. In a few minutes he received a reply in the most unconnected manner, as a stranger descended the stairs and at once attacked him.

Kronish called his neighbors from a "wake," which was being held next door and the intruder was set upon and given a severe beating. Kronish went before Justice Ekeanor of Etna after daylight and swore out a warrant charging the man found in his house with attempted burglary. When arrested the man gave his name as John Smith. He was committed to jail for trial at court.

BEEF TRUST GOES ON TRIAL THIS MORNING

JAPANESE WILL CONTINUE WAR

Army Dissatisfied Over Peace Agreement and Preparing to Go Into Battle.

MOVEMENT CAUSES SURPRISE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LIUZIAPUZIER, MANCHURIA, Sept. 4.—The Japanese are continuing preparations for a battle. This has caused astonishment, coming at the moment when the peace treaty is on the eve of being signed at Portsmouth. The Russian advance posts report that the Japanese troops are very much dissatisfied with the peace agreement.

The terms of peace are the subject of discussion everywhere. In the Russian army the prevailing spirit is one of satisfaction, and even of loyalty repugnance, though general confidence is expressed that the Russian troops would be victorious if they had to fight another battle. The feeling of many of the officers may be summed up in the words of an eminent commander:

"As a soldier I am greatly chagrined, but as a citizen I rejoice at the conclusion of peace."

Three thousand Japanese, who on August 27 descended on Port Dekastries (opposite the Island of Sakhalin and 90 miles northwest of the Sakhalin town of Alexandrovsk), set fire to a grass-covered steppe. The conflagration took on serious proportions.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 4.—Gen. Linevitch reports further encounters with the Japanese in Korea. In a dispatch to Emperor Nicholas, dated September 2, he says the Russians in Northern Korea, September 1 repulsed a series of lively attacks by six battalions of Japanese with 12 guns. The Japanese simultaneously commenced an offensive engagement against the Russian troops in the neighborhood of Kiangcheul in Petchengueilen pass.

TREATY OF PEACE TO BE SIGNED TODAY

Closing Acts of the Portsmouth Conference Will Be Exclusive.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 4.—The closing act of the peace conference promises to be a very tame affair. There will be no spectacular features. Final arrangements have been made for the signing of the "treaty of Portsmouth" at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the conference room of the naval stores building. Besides the plenipotentiaries only Assistant Secretary Peirce, representing the president; Gov. McLane, the mayor of Portsmouth, Admiral Mead and Commander Winslow will be present. The ceremony will be brief.

After the signing the members of the Russian mission will go to Christ Episcopal church, Portsmouth, where a te deum service will be held. The Russian orthodox bishop at New York, accompanied by 20 priests and about 75 choristers, arrived this evening on a special train.

M. Witte and the members of his suite will leave for New York at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. Baron Komura, before going to Oyster Bay, will visit Harvard, his alma mater.

CITY TAXES REDUCED AS ELECTION APPROACHES

Finance Committee to Grant Large Number of Exonerations Today—Clerks Are Refused Higher Salaries.

With the county campaign only two months off, the city administration is anxious to accommodate a large number of property owners who have been clamoring for months to have their taxes reduced and resolutions for the exoneration and reduction of taxes to the number of 40 or 50 are to be taken up this afternoon by the finance committee of councils and disposed of.

A number of city employes are again asking for salary increases, including two clerks in the office of Mayor Hays, but the mayor has again refused to endorse their petitions. It is officially announced that Mayor Hays and Director Lupyan are firmly opposed to any salary raises during the present administration.

The surveys and public works committees are also scheduled to meet today. Both branches of councils met Monday.

Panama Conditions Improved.

R. T. Bradberry of Sharpsburg, who went to Panama last spring, in a letter to Sharpsburg friends says that conditions on the isthmus have greatly improved. The work of excavating for the canal, he says, is progressing favorably. Sanitary conditions show decided improvement. Mr. Bradbury writes that his health is good. He was recently made general paymaster of the Panama railroad.

Viceroy Assures Him Leaders in Canton Will Be Arrested and Punished.

CANTONESE PROVE FRIENDLY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

HONGKONG, Sept. 4.—Secretary of War Taft and party arrived at Canton this morning and proceeded to the American consulate, where the members of the party were met by a battalion of the viceroy's guards. After a reception at the consulate the party became guests of the new Canton railway, covering its entire district.

At 1 o'clock the visitors were entertained at luncheon by invitation of the viceroy, who, however, was ill and unable to be present. His representative made a speech referring to the friendly relations between the Chinese nation and America. Secretary Taft in his response said that by direction of the president he was pleased to note the friendly relations of the two countries. The United States did not want one foot or one acre of the soil of China. The secretary thought the boycott of American goods was an unreasonable violation of treaty rights and conditions between the two countries, and declared that he was glad the viceroy had ordered the boycott stopped. The party's trip to Canton has had an immense effect for good, and it is believed that within two weeks the boycott will end.

The viceroy Monday morning gave notice that he had ordered the boycott declared off and all of its leaders to be arrested and punished. Old residents of Canton say that they believed the agitators are using the boycott as an excuse for a demonstration against all foreigners. During their stay in Canton a few members of Secretary Taft's party visited the old city. They made many purchases, and were treated with great respect, there being no evidence of ill feeling. The entire party returned to Hongkong late tonight.

Japanese Pushing Colonists Into Every Town, but American Consuls Will Be There.

IMMIGRATION GROWS HEAVY

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Consul General Rogers at Shanghai reported to the state department today that trade is opening up in Northern China and that the boycott declared by Chinese merchants against American products is generally subsiding. This impetus of trade in Northern China has been expected as a result of peace.

The United States will be quick to send consular officers to Mukden and Antung, the new ports opened by the Chinese-American trade treaty. Fleming D. Cheshire will go to Mukden as consul general and John Davidson to Antung. Both of them will first have conferences with the state department as to American policy in Manchuria.

Mr. Davidson is now in Minnesota and Mr. Cheshire is on his way home. These men will be the custodians of the open door and will be for a time, in all probability, the only foreign consular officers in the respective cities.

PEKIN, Sept. 4.—Commercial men of North China hope and believe that a complete opening of Southern Manchuria to foreign trade will be incident to the new status of the territory now occupied by the Japanese troops. Japanese colonization in Korea has been repeated in Manchuria on a large scale. Japanese civilians have been permitted to enter the country freely and Antung, Fengwangcheng, Mukden, Dalny and Newchwang have become populous Japanese cities.

Newchwang, where, before the war, there were about 100 Japanese and a year ago 1,000, now has 6,000, and the number is continually increasing by the arrival daily of from 50 to 100 immigrants.

The Seoul & Wiju railway will be extended via Fengwancheng to form a junction with the Manchurian railway at Liaoyang in the near future. The possession of the Manchurian railway gives the Japanese the right to settle all the towns along the line with their own people, and other nationalities will likely desire the same privileges of the open door.

Notes for Exposition Visitors.

Our Store is open from 8 A. M. until 5:30 P. M.

Excursions have been arranged for Thursdays and Saturdays of each week, with special excursions on some Tuesdays.

As this store is a neighbor of the Exposition, we extend an invitation to visitors to make it their headquarters when in town. Everything for comfort of visitors except sleeping quarters. The Restaurant serves meals any time during the day.

By the calendar not for some days, but from the business side very much so. Buying for Autumn has already commenced, and from now on we look for an epoch-making Fall season.

That we have prepared well it is needless to say. There were never such abundant stocks in this store. The vast trade, the growing trade, demands variety along generous lines. Our buyers have looked to it that variety in everything is first, and next to that quality, and next to that again lowest prices.

In The Gazette of yesterday morning there was some introductory news relative to Autumn goods which, no doubt, was thoroughly read. It is good to see the new articles of wear, and the new fabrics, as early as convenient, for first impressions are best. After heavy buying begins inspection is not nearly so satisfactory. Therefore we ask everybody to see the new things brought out for Autumn just as soon as the time can be spared.

Our Autumn Suits for Women Are Ready.

Our Autumn Suits for Girls Are Ready.

Our Autumn Suits for Men Are Ready.

Our Autumn Suits for Boys Are Ready.

Our Autumn Millinery Is Ready.

These are the things that are uppermost in mind now. At the same time please remember that the new silks and the new dress goods, both in woolens and cottons, are shown in all the new weaves and the new colors that have been brought out for the Autumn season.

ALL EUROPE IS NOW FIGHTING THE DREADED CHOLERA SCOURGE

Annual Conventions Called Off, Restaurants Closed and Disease Spreads.

EMIGRANTS WILL ALL BE HELD

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1905, by New York Herald Co.)

HAMBURG, Sept. 4.—There has been a mild case of cholera at Eppendorf hospital. The patient has now entered the convalescent stage and will be discharged in a few days.

Prof. Dunbar, director of the Hamburg Hygienic institute, states that there is not the slightest reason for anxiety. The outbreak, he says, is confined to remote isolated cases and the riverside population is now excluded. The prompt detection of a single case, that of a Russian immigrant, proves the admirable precautions taken.

The authorities declare there are no new cases of cholera in Hamburg and that they believe the further spread of the disease is impossible. Thirty-one Russian immigrants who arrived here with the Russian who died of the disease August 29, and who were bound for the United States, as well as a thousand others who were discharged from the Hamburg-American line steamer Moltke, have been detained aboard the company's steamer Bulgaria, anchored in mid-stream in the Elbe, off Brunshausen, for four days without the disease breaking out among them. They have, however, been subjected to a thorough fumigation, and all their baggage has been disinfected. These immigrants have been examined daily by the company's doctors, and if tomorrow passes without symptoms of the disease the Bulgaria will sail for the United States Wednesday or Thursday.

Will Ship No Cholera.

Doctor Eckar, a director of the Hamburg-American line, said today that he was confident there was no cholera among the passengers on board the Bulgaria, as otherwise the company would not dispatch the ship because of the danger of having to bring back a thousand immigrants at its expense. He said:

"It is to the interest of the company to take no risk of shipping the disease to America. As soon as we discovered the case among the Russian immigrants we immediately wired all our agents to refuse further bookings of immigrants. This order will remain in force until we are satisfied the danger has been passed. Since our action was taken the government has instituted a strict quarantine along the entire Russian frontier. The cholera in West Russia is worse than it has been for many years and some sporadic cases got across the frontier, but they have been confined mostly to the river districts, where they can be thoroughly controlled."

Dr. Heinrich St. Hamer, chief of the local health department, said that every precaution had been taken to prevent a recurrence of the disease here and that he did not believe any new cases were possible in Hamburg. Other ports, he said, had taken similar severe measures. No more Russian emigrants would be permitted to enter the city, and the recent arrivals had been hunted out and removed to the quarantine station. All cases in Germany would be closely isolated. The doctor added:

Authorities Expected It.

"The authorities knew early in the spring that the annual crop of cholera in West Russia was unusually heavy and took measures to prevent its introduction into this country. It is natural that a few cases should get in, but this is an annual occurrence and need not cause alarm."

The authorities of the city are distressed because of their fear that the reports sent abroad will affect the commerce of the port. At the same time they assure the press that they will not hide anything and will report promptly any developments. They promise to give every facility to American experts and trustworthy correspondents to make thorough investigations.

Past Assistant Surgeon McLaughlin, who has been ordered here from Naples by Surgeon General Wyman to make a thorough investigation of the situation, is expected to arrive tomorrow. Dr. McLaughlin has been directed to be prepared to enforce the United States treasury regulations relative to ships leaving for American ports.

BERLIN, Sept. 4.—It was officially bulletined today that 66 cholera cases and 25 deaths have occurred in Prussia. Of this number 10 new cases and 3 deaths were reported up to noon today. The number of cases reported by private sources since the official bulletin was made up indicates a total of fully 70.

Berlin Growing Anxious.

While anxiety is not yet the word to describe the feeling in the imperial health office, concern over the cholera situation does begin to exist. Most of the new cases do not break out among the quarantined persons, but are suddenly heard of in detached farm houses or villages, not contiguous to the Vistula. Hence the inference is that the infected area is widening slowly and that the measures to hold the disease strictly within the existing boundaries have not been fully successful. These measures, however, are being sharply increased. Orders were issued today to close all the refreshment houses along the Vistula except those located in towns. These small restaurants and bars are frequented by rivermen who are the most likely to be infected. In anticipation of cholera reaching Berlin the government began the erection yesterday of two barracks for cholera patients or suspected illnesses at Koepenick, on the River Spree, near Berlin, and also established an inspection station for river traffic.

All Meetings Called Off.

MARIANWERDER, WEST PRUSSIA, Sept. 4.—Five new cases of cholera have been reported, two at Thorn, one each at Grebowka, Mocker and Treuil.

All the annual meetings of various societies, such as agricultural, veterans and religious bodies, fixed to occur in this part of Prussia during September, have been indefinitely postponed, owing to the outbreak of cholera.

BREMEN, GERMANY, Sept. 4.—The North German Lloyd Steamship Company has received the following message from the American consul, Henry W. Diederich:

"Owing to the number of sporadic cases of cholera occurring at Hamburg and various other places in eastern parts of Germany, that originate, according to common report, in Russia, it will be necessary to exercise the greatest possible care in inspecting Russian emigrants passing through Bremen on their way to the United States.

"All passengers from Russia will, therefore, have to be detained at this port before embarking for at least six days, as under the quarantine laws and regulations of the United States, five days is considered to be the period of incubation of cholera. If at the end of this period, Dr. Peltzer pronounces them to be safe passengers, and if they are found to be otherwise in good physical condition, I will pass them and have their inspection cards duly stamped."

The consul's letter, after referring to baggage disinfection, urges the company to use every precaution to prevent the disease from reaching the United States through one of the North German Lloyd Company's vessels.

France Puts Up Bars.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—The ministry of the interior has adopted energetic measures to protect the frontiers against cholera coming from Germany. Dr. Chantemesse, head of the Pasteur institute, has been called from his vacation to organize a precautionary service and instructions have been sent telegraphically along the frontier to require a rigid inspection of the passports of parties arriving from Hamburg and other suspect points and ordering the detention and disinfection of merchandise and baggage. The sanitary officials say these precautions insure against the introduction of the disease in France.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 4.—The ministry of the interior today officially announced that there is no danger of an outbreak of cholera in the Caucasus and Transcaspian territory.

CULM, PRUSSIA, Sept. 4.—Of the nine cholera cases first discovered here, four deaths have occurred. All the dredgers employed along the Vistula are under close observation.

BROMBERG, PRUSSIA, Sept. 4.—The local government has been notified of the following cases of cholera: One each in Nakel, Stoewen, Czarnifau, Briendorff, Romanshof and Walkewithe and two in Weissenhoche. Three deaths have occurred in the Bromberg district.

WARSAW, RUSSIAN POLAND, Sept. 4.—Three cases of suspected cholera, reported to the health authorities here, have been proved not to be cholera as the result of bacteriological examination.

VIENNA, Sept. 4.—A gendarme died yesterday of cholera at Padew, in Galicia. There have been altogether six fatal cases there.

DAVID WHITE WAS NOT ROBBED OR MURDERED

Yellow Journals in Pittsburgh Weave Awful Stories About the Death of a Farmer.

David White died at his home near Imperial last Wednesday. While working on his farm on August 25 he suffered a stroke of paralysis and was not found until two days later. The exposure caused pneumonia and death resulted August 30. These are the facts as told by the relatives and the attending physician. This is the way a Pittsburgh morning paper yesterday told its readers of the death of Mr. White:

With his head beaten to pulp and a large sum of money which he carried gone, Prof. David White, a wealthy and widely-known farmer and teacher of near Imperial was found in a dying condition by neighbors Friday night. While those who found him were trying to get from him some clue to the perpetrators of the horrible deed, life left the old man's body and since then, although the whole countryside from Coraopolis westward has been aroused, no clue has been discovered that might lead to the capture of the murderer.

Not to be outdone in the faking line, an afternoon paper in the "hump" district did some weaving. It says it is "not improbable that Thomas O. Russell, the murderer who escaped from Woodville Thursday night, might have been connected with the crime. The old man was worth considerable money and carried large sums with him. The place where David White was found dying is near Imperial, which is about four miles in county from Oakdale. It is not deemed as being improbable that Russell could have made his way back that far. Russell knew every acre of country for miles around in that region. He could have made his way with as much certainty to the White farm as he could to the Walker farm."

Relatives of Mr. White are astounded that newspapers should twist the facts regarding their brother's death into a murder story. There was no suspicion of murder or robbery. So far as is known not a cent of the man's money is missing. Mr. White's body was buried in the Presbyterian cemetery in Robinson township, Washington county, without the case having been reported to the coroner of that county.

Mr. White had spent practically all his life in Washington county. He was 60 years old and had never married. Until his mother's death two years ago he lived with her on her farm in Robinson township. He then began living upon another farm in the same township. Two brothers, William F. and J. B. White, own adjoining farms, and the former is said to have held a mortgage on the farm occupied by David. A sister, Mrs. Anna Jackson, lives in Elizabeth. David White was an expert penman and formerly taught penmanship in many towns in Washington county.

On Sunday, August 27, Edward McElhaney was walking through David White's farm and found the man lying on the ground unconscious near the house. He was removed to William White's home and Dr. Martin of Clinton was called. The physician said the man was suffering from a form of paralysis, with pneumonia resulting from exposure. Every effort was made to revive him, but he died the following Wednesday without recovering consciousness. It is believed Mr. White was attacked by illness suddenly and that he had lain in the open air since the preceding Friday night, when he had visited the home of his brother William. Four slight bruises were found on his body—one on the side, two on the shoulder and one under the arm. They were such as might have been sustained in falling in a faint.

William White said yesterday that he could not imagine how the published story of robbery and murder had originated and branded the accuse of his brother's death as it appeared in a Pittsburgh newspaper as false. He said that his brother never carried any large sum of money with him, and that he did not believe David had $150 received from the alleged sale of a horse, as was stated.

AN IDLER IN HIS PALATIAL YACHT ON LEVEL WITH TRAMP IN HAYSTACK

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., Sept. 4.—(Special.)—The idle rich were scored in a Labor Day address by the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Woodrow in Hope Congregational church. "There is danger from the idle poor, but a greater danger from the idle rich," declared Pastor Woodrow to his prosperous congregation. The tramp walking from village to village, sleeping by the wayside and living on handouts, is a parasite, but not more so than the multi-millionaire who has nothing to do but devise new ways of spending money.

"I have listened to many sermons on the need of the seventh day of rest, but I have never heard one on the obligation of six days' work. Man is commanded to work six days as truly as he is to rest the seventh. The only person God has no use for is the idler, whether he circumnavigates the globe on a $200,000 steam yacht or sleeps under a haystack. The man who has a vacation 365 days in the year deteriorates, or, in homely phraseology, 'goes to seed.'"

Tuesday, September 5, 1905.

A thrilling tale of brutal murder was perpetrated by the Times yesterday morning and adapted to fit the Russell escape by the Leader yesterday evening. The item was "exclusive" in the two papers named. Of course, it was not true. The gentleman reported to have been foully slain, suffered an attack of apoplexy, was not found for nearly two days, contracted pneumonia from the exposure and died a natural death. The sort of sensationalism that distorts facts to make death more horrible is not admired by the public.

Slight frosts reported from Nebraska and the chilly atmosphere naturally create apprehension. There are many crops not ready for killing frost, among them the greatest corn crop in history. A part of it is reasonably secure, Kansas, Missouri, etc., being so far south, but a large area of the corn belt is as far north as Nebraska. Frost is unusual during the first third of September and the mere suggestion of it is discouraging. It is welcome to decorate the golden pumpkin only after the "fodder's in the shock."

It is proposed to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, on January 17, next, in Philadelphia, New York and Boston. This celebration may properly be extended. There is no good reason why Franklin's day should not be celebrated in every city and hamlet and home in this country. Benjamin Franklin's life, his character, his services belong to all Americans. He was one of the most potent powers in the struggle for liberty and independence and in the formation of the republic. He was typically American. Why not have a Franklin revival in January?

In the Caucasus, at least, the disturbances have reached the proportions of a rebellion. With casualties footing up more than 5,000 and an appeal from the viceroy to the general government for assistance, it would be silly to call the outbreak a riot. There have been signs of revolution in other parts of the Russian empire—signs that would be regarded as certain portents in almost any other country. Russian officials have laughed at the suggestion of revolution and it has been hard to ascertain the truth. In the Caucasus, however, there can be no mistake. It is revolt and it is serious.

It is expected the treaty of peace will be signed in Portsmouth today, with the stipulation that ratifications be exchanged within 60 days. Under these conditions the armies in Manchuria can hardly be dispersed before winter and complete evacuation of that province will not be possible earlier than next spring. In the meantime there is much discontent in Japan and great apprehension in Russia that peace abroad may be succeeded by war at home. It is not probable the trouble in Japan will become serious, for the peace is an honorable one, and conditions in Russia can hardly be made worse by the return home of the Manchurian troops.

Director Moore has postponed the fender test to Friday and it is admitted there may not be a test then. The director promises, however, in that case to approve a fender without a test. This will be better than no fenders, but will not be wholly satisfactory. The public desires the adoption of the best fender, after so much delay, and how can the best be selected without competitive test? Director Moore has said repeatedly there are no good fenders. He ought to be willing to be convinced by personal observation that some fenders are good, before approving, at random, one of the other kind for adoption in Pittsburgh. It is quite probable the cheapest fender may not be the best.

While Manchuria will be restored to China, there is every reason to believe it cannot return to its former condition. It will be opened to settlement and trade and Japanese influence is likely to become dominant. It is noted that in Niuchwang, there are now 4,000 or 5,000 Japanese, as compared with less than 1,000 before the war, and the number is being augmented weekly by the arrival of immigrants. There is nothing alarming in this fact, unless it be to the exclusive ideas of the Manchus. They will probably prefer the Japanese to the Russians who arrived some years ago, and the Japanese will better develop the resources of the country. Manchuria is not as crowded as most of the Chinese provinces.

There appeared recently in the Oil City Derrick an account of the first nitroglycerin explosion, related by John W. Mott of Bayonne, N. J. It occurred in 1856. The explosive had been brought from Europe by Alfred Nobel, a chemist, to introduce it in America. One day the box was set in the street in front of the Wyoming hotel because it was leaking. Soon afterward there was a terrific explosion. Gun cotton, dynamite and the other nitro-explosives were made later. Yesterday the papers contained an item stating that President Roosevelt would be invited to lecture on peace at Christiania for the Alfred Nobel prize. The Alfred Nobel who endowed the peace prize was the same who brought the first nitroglycerin to America. He was a man of peace, dealing in the deadly munitions of war.

Water Meters and Rates.

There is one way in which the matter of installing meters can be settled. It is simply by giving house owners and other consumers their own option. This plan was adopted by the Pennsylvania Water Company in Wilkinsburg a few years ago and few unmetered service pipes can be found there now. The water company fixed rates for unmeasured service the same as the rates in Pittsburgh. It fixed rates by meter on a fair basis, the minimum charge being about one-half city rates. Few consumers have ever exceeded the minimum, though lawn sprinklers are common.

On the South Side the company refuses applications for metered service, though meters are there installed at the expense of the householder. At city rates for unmetered service the profit is greater than at meter rates. Obviously, then, if a fair meter rate is established, as against the existing open rates, householders will soon demand installation of meters. Meters will save them money. Meters will save the city much pumping and frequent expansion of the water plant.

In the meantime City Controller Larkin has found a way in which householders may resist installation of meters on their premises. This defect in the law, however, will not prevent Director Bigelow from purchasing the meters which have been authorized by vote of the people and act of councils. The sum of $600,000 is available for that purpose and can be expended in the discretion of the director, it being only necessary to store the meters until they are needed. If the people who will benefit by the metering of the service are foolish enough to resist placing of the meters as the controller advises, it need make no difference to the director in making his purchases. The demand for meters will come as soon as water consumers learn the difference between a fair meter rate and the open service rates of the city. After the vacation of councils has terminated an ordinance can be passed to take care of the deliberate wasters of water.

True Heroes.

No heroism is greater than that which moves a man to lay down his life for his fellows. Capt. McDonald, his mates and the seamen who remained on the wreck on Sand island reef made this sacrifice. None in that peril knew better than the captain and his mates how little the chance of rescue was, yet they chose to remain while their guests were sent to safety.

Of the brave men who rowed the boat to land, two were accompanied by their wives. They volunteered to remain on the wreck, but Capt. McDonald well knew the desperate struggle that would be required to land that boat with the women, and he well knew none could be trusted to make greater exertions than the men who would be fighting the elements for the lives of their wives as well as their own. His judgment was fully vindicated, for the boat carrying eleven persons, including four helpless women, landed, while that containing five able-bodied men was lost.

The heroism of these men can be best appreciated when contrasted with the conduct of officers and sailors in the wreck of La Bourgogne a few years ago. Death is not welcome to a strong man whose loved ones are waiting for him, but death was faced by those men on Lake Superior in the discharge of their duty to humanity as bravely as ever death was faced on bloody battlefield.

Wellington's Second Rebuke.

The defeat of ex-Senator Wellington's candidate for state senator in the Allegany county, Maryland, primaries recalls the wave of indignation that spread over the country when this same man, then a United States senator, defamed the memory of the dead President McKinley before he was confined for the tomb. The enmity of Wellington was engendered by the refusal of the president to accede to demands for the appointment of men to office not deemed fit material. A man of broad mind would have borne his disappointments in a manner befitting the dignity of his position as a senator. Not so Wellington. He never missed an opportunity to attack the president.

Then when the great tragedy occurred that threw a happy people into a sobbing nation, Wellington stood alone in villifying the dead. For this his friends forsook him. He was retired to the oblivion that was his due, ignored at home and forgotten abroad. His first attempt to emerge from obscurity was by setting up a candidate for the state senate against one espoused by Congressman Pearre, of the Cumberland district. The people, however, have long memories for some things, as the results of the Allegany county primaries show, the Wellington candidate being defeated by over 1,000 votes. The American people are generous enough to forgive the honest mistakes of any man in public life, but they are as quick to resent an un-American hate that refuses to pause at the open grave. It is hardly possible that Wellington will try the temper of the people again.

Organizing the Police.

Capt. Groome is ready to begin the organization of the state police, authorized by the act of this year. Since his appointment by Gov. Pennypacker as superintendent, he has been overwhelmed with applications for positions on the force. He is thus in a position to select his men and will do this with an eye single to efficiency. An examination has been prepared that is well calculated to eliminate the unfit.

It is good news to the people of Pennsylvania that organization of this force is to begin. There is hope in it for the prevention and punishment of crimes that have become too common in this state. It has long been evident the old system, imported from England, is inadequate to deal with the mixed populations of the counties of this commonwealth. Township constables may be depended on to serve writs of ejectment and to arrest petty offenders on information received, but their offices are too often administered on a basis of petty graft to afford any real protection to the public. Their spheres of operation, besides, are too limited to admit of dealing with the more serious offenders against the laws. Moreover, capable constables are too busy to devote the time and effort necessary to the unraveling of mysteries and the pursuit of criminals far beyond their own bailiwicks.

In the organization of the state police there is hope for the better administration of the law. These officers will always be available to trace criminals, singly or in squads; to suppress riots or continuing disorders; to give special protection in cases of need; and they will be as free as possible from local and from corrupting influences. It is not to be expected the members will be experts in criminology in the beginning, but ripened by experience this body should become the terror of all lawbreakers.

Wireless Telephone.

A boy out in California has succeeded in applying the wireless telegraph system to the telephone to the extent of transmitting words a distance of one mile. The invention is of doubtful value. Wireless apparatus is not under control—telegraph or telephone—as is wire transmission. Any receiving station may respond to a wireless message intended for another. It is simply a question of putting them "in tune." To apply this system to telephony would imply the tuning of all instruments together and the result, in practice, would be about the same as in a case of 20 trunk-line wires crossed. The babel of tongues might be amusing or distracting, according to the mood of the listener, but not intelligible.

It is probable the use of the wireless telegraph will be limited by the interference of one message with another. The method will remain none the less valuable for certain purposes. It would seem wireless telephony must be more limited in its uses, yet it may find a field of employment. It is barely possible it can be adapted to the uses of local or long distance telephoning, but this does not seem probable in the present development of electrical science. The airship may be useful under certain circumstances, but is a long way from practical application to commercial business. Not every discovery in this age of wonders can be universally useful.

Obviously the abuse of John D. Rockefeller has so far passed the bounds of truth and decency as to arouse the American sense of fair play. This is indicated by the number of defenders that has sprung up. It is one of the characteristics of the American people to resent attack on any person when that attack is pressed to extremes.

One of the anti-Republican papers refers to the Niles letter as "adroitly conceived and cleverly worded." Exactly. A lawyer's brief in a bad case. Adroit, clever, but insincere. An emotional plea against the good judgment of the jury.

While the Post hedges on its recent declaration that President Roosevelt isn't much of a peacemaker, it is much perturbed by the suggestion that he may be a candidate for re-election. The Post is safe only on Democratic ground.

The only difference between the present obsequies over the political remains of J. Edward Addicks and former ceremonies is that the men who used to be mourners now seem to want to take a hand in filling up the grave.

Envoy Witte declares he is going to stay awhile in America. Presumably to allow us to get better acquainted with him and give his own people a chance to forget some things about him.

Controller Larkin declares he has no authority to refuse payment of doubtful special police men. The controller was less circumspect while an Orphan.

Though the Leader does not know when Candidate Berry was nominated, it makes a great pretense to other political knowledge.

Controller Larkin's antipathy to the water meter may arouse the suspicion that his plumbing is not good.

A wireless telephone is announced. There was a jargon of tongues at the tower of Babel, too.

Mr. Rockefeller's new wig is said to be too large for him. He does not suffer from the big head.

If the peace dove has any idle time on her hands just now she might take a whirl at Raisuli.

Beaver county is quite proud of the fact that it has a real first-class spook on its hands.

First mail in Pittsburgh today for applicants for the state constabulary.

A PREACHMENT BY THE QUIET OBSERVER

On Exposition Music and How It May Be Made Better.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

The people want music.

The exposition managers have found this out, and they are giving it to them in plenty, and good, too—the very best.

Nor is the very best any too good for good people, and it won't hurt those who are not so good.

There is such a thing as getting too far away from the people, clean out of their reach, but the musical programs offered here are not above the ears of those who like real music.

The ragtime gang may not fancy the programs offered by Dr. Damrosch, but there is the fire show and topical songs in the next building, so they need not suffer for agreeable entertainment.

The programs so far seem to have been even more classical than heretofore, and the audiences are larger and more attentive, which shows that the public ear is being trained to some purpose, a good purpose.

It takes years to educate the public in anything worth while, and particularly in music.

Only a few years ago Wagner music was said not to be music at all, only noise. Now the most cultured musical ears bend to it with delight, while the common people crowd to hear it.

* * *

There is one thing that Dr. Damrosch could do, if he would, for which the people would ever feel like rising up and calling him blessed.

Were he to outline the themes of overtures so that the people could understand what it is all about, they would not only enjoy the music more thoroughly, but would be greatly benefited.

Dr. Damrosch understands, and so do some others, that a musical composition is a picture, a story, or a poem in melody instead of color, words or rhymes. And when the theme or subject is known the presentation becomes more realistic, and is far more comprehensive.

A picture may be very pleasing, even attractive, because of its careful drawing, delicate shading, or fine coloring, but if the subject or theme is not known, or is obscure, it will not be half appreciated.

* * *

There is the "William Tell" overture for instance. It is popular because of its sweeping movements, surging melody and military spirit. This is satisfying as far as it goes, but if the story were outlined in advance it would be doubly satisfying.

An overture, as you know, is a preface or foreword, to an opera, musical drama, or story. The "William Tell" overture is a brief outline of the opera of that name. This can be translated into words so that any one may follow the story step by step, recognizing the arraignment of Tell, the verdict of the court, the coming of the cavalcade to witness its execution, his shooting the apple placed on the head of his darling boy, the shouts of the people at his success, and then his triumphant departure.

All this is most effectually portrayed in the overture and may be made perfectly clear to an audience by a foreword by the conductor.

* * *

There are other things that conductors might do that would be most gratifying and helpful to their audiences.

Every country, or at least every distinct nationality, has its characteristic music, and musical doctors are able to recognize airs from any country. You may be able to recognize Scotch, Spanish or Hungarian airs, but not having studied the matter carefully you are not able to see or to tell wherein they differ.

There is the characteristic Mexican music, soft, languorous and sweet, but without snap, as we say—a lazy, dreamy sort of music.

Characteristic Spanish music is soft and sweet, and languorous, too, but it has snap withal, so that the castinet is essential in its production. It is full of staccatos, like the Spanish nature.

Then we have the Hungarian, or gipsy type of music, a whirling, swaying mass of melody, light and sweet, which cannot be produced truthfully and effectively without the tambourine.

* * *

The director who will favor his audience with music typical of the different nationalities, with a foreword calling attention to their several characteristics, will not only find himself growing rapidly in favor with the public, but will have the satisfaction of knowing that he is doing much in the way of educating the people concerning music, which is an important step toward musical education.

These forewords need not be long, particularly if they are followed by characteristic selections.

It would be very interesting and highly instructive if Dr. Damrosch would compare Spanish and Mexican music, Scotch and Irish, German and Italian, gipsy and Turkish. These comparisons can be easily made, and that without spoiling a program.

As it is now the best arranged symphony, or most interesting overture, is little more than a mass of harmony more or less jumbled and mixed up; that is, it is so to the masses.

* * *

Selections from operas could be made all the more satisfactory by a few words from the conductor telling what the music is all about.

How many of those who enjoy, in a way, selections from "Il Trovatore" know "The Troubadour" is the English for it, and that the story is about a troubadour, or wandering singer, who had been mixed up with other babies once upon a time, and wasn't the fellow he thought he was at all.

The favorite scenes in this opera are perfect pictures, and need only a few words by way of outline to make them plain and easy of comprehension.

How much more satisfying would have been the overture from "Semiramide" yesterday afternoon, if Dr. Damrosch had given only two little minutes to telling the folks what it was all about? As it was, it was like listening to a well told story told in an unknown tongue.

* * *

The scheme of separating the orchestra from the people by a fence wouldn't work. When it was tried on Monday neither the audience nor players felt at all comfortable. It gave the impression of a rehearsal to which the people had been admitted rather than of a performance for the people.

After playing a few pieces the players were seen to pick up their chairs and music and climb over the fence on to the old stage. This was so gratifying to the people that a hum of approval swept over the auditorium and it only needed some one to have started it to have had the hall ringing with applause.

Yesterday the players were back in their places and everybody felt at home again.

Why doesn't the director face the audience? His face front would look much better than his back.

You may say that he can't direct from that position. Then let him learn to do so. The director of the Royal Mexican band does so, and with great success and satisfaction.

Prospective Pumpkin Pie Feast.

Martin Muck, the well-known Fourth street hotelkeeper, accompanied by Joseph Bittman and William Burns, the champion chainmakers, returned last evening from the Woodsfield (O.) fair. They brought with them a 35-pound pumpkin, and all the boarders are looking forward to a pumpkin pie feast during the next few days.—Braddock Herald.

WEATHER BUREAU NEEDS UNIONIZING

Sends Bad Weather for Labor Day—Freak of New York Law. Gossip of Gotham.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—And such a Labor day as it was! Surely the union men who walked for miles through the rain that came in torrents on the morning should send a delegation to Washington to unionize the weather factory. New York has not had a worse Labor day in years, and, strangely enough, within an hour after the parade had been held, the rain ceased and a little later the sun came out to freshen the air. It was hot, too, with that humid heat that makes walking a few short blocks irksome. Despite the weather, the parade of the labor hosts was a success. Nearly 5,000 men and some women were in line. Never before has there been a delegation of women added to the Labor day parade of New York, and this feature today was all but spoiled by the bad weather, for few of the women would risk having their hats and gowns spoiled. But some of them did brave the elements, and added a picturesque feature to the parade. The women are waitresses in the quick lunch restaurants, mostly from the East Side. Fifth avenue was well lined by spectators, notwithstanding the rain, but the lookers-on were more fortunate in that they could stand still and be covered with umbrellas.

City Sends Debtor to Jail.

The case of Barnet Goldberg is one of the most unique that has developed recently out of the complexity of the laws of New York. He is now in jail because he is unable to pay the city $14 for the keep of his young son in a correctional institution. The boy was accused of theft, but the evidence was very meager. However, he was sentenced to the house of correction, and his father said he would pay his board. Hard times came, the father was taken sick and other things seemed to combine against the family. Therefore, because he could not pay the city the $14 due, the father was sent to prison, and his family is left in want. Rather strange manifestation of justice, one would think.

Other Things Forgotten by Police.

While the police are spending their time running down such as the Goldberg family, father and son, the laws of New York are broken into fragments without the police seeming to care. For instance, the excise law. Last night, after midnight, I saw a policeman talking to a saloonkeeper within three feet of the side door of the saloon, while people were coming and going through the door, paying no attention to this guardian of the law who was not even winking at its infraction. This is only a sample of the way Mr. McAdoo and his officials are sitting on the lid. There are scores—even hundreds—of such instances throughout the city, and the police don't care what anyone says about it. The occasional raids on Raines law hotels are simply flurries to cover worse things.

An Old Friend Returns to Rialto.

There is joy all along the Rialto—Jake Wolf has returned. For so many years that few denizens of the Great White Way remember, Wolf has been a feature of Bohemia. His Casino cafe was the Mecca of all Broadway, and there actors who, just arrived from the road, would look for their more fortunate brethren with a metropolitan engagement. Then came the Casino fire, and the order that the Casino theater should be brought downstairs. That put Jake out in the cold. Since then he visited London with an idea of starting an American cafe over there. But the call of Broadway was strong upon him, and he has returned and opened a cafe within a stone's throw of the old place.

Croton Lake Water Is Bad.

The city health department is investigating the water supply. Reports come from Croton lake that the whole city water supply is contaminated. Near Croton lake is a swamp known as the Black hole. On its banks live large colonies of negroes and Italians. They use the swamp as a dumping ground and the rains have gradually washed all sorts of refuse into the lake. The odors arising from the swamp are so strong that residents of Mount Kisko, which is in the Croton watershed, refuse to drive along the road that skirts the reservoir. This condition has alarmed the health department, and something is to be done to relieve the situation immediately.

President Is Not Infallible.

A new story about President Roosevelt is being told by a New York state senator who some time ago recommended a man for the postmastership in a town upstate. His man was not appointed. The president chose another man, and what is worse, a Democrat. The Democrat made a pretty poor postmaster, and the senator, meeting the president, chided him. "Well, senator, I'm sorry I didn't take your advice in that matter," replied the president. "But then you must allow me to make an occasional mistake, so that I may not forget that I am human."

Every Prospect Pleases.

Everything today indicates that the bumper crop of 1901 is to be more than repeated, for this year there is no failure in any crop. The government's estimate for July gives promise of a greater yield of wheat, corn, oats and barley than in the preceding three years, while rye was exceeded only in 1902.—St. Paul Dispatch.

SOME GOOD STORIES OF PITH AND MOMENT

Gossipy Chat and Anecdote of Entertaining and Instructive Character.

There is a certain young man in this town who wears a kind of tie that one usually sees pictured about the necks of artist people. When this young man approaches you, your eye first lights upon his neckwear, then you instinctively look for long curly hair on his head and a portfolio of sketches under his arm.

He dines at the same restaurant every day. Recently the waiter asked him:

"Say, Mr. Brown, where'd you get that tie? I've been all over Erie and I can't find one like it. What'd you call it, anyway?"

"That," replied the young man, "is a string tie."

"String? Is that what you call it? Well, it's funny, but I haven't been able to strike one like it anywhere."

"Probably not," replied the young man solemnly. "This tie is an invention of my own, and I am the only one who possesses the secret of properly making it."

"That so?" The waiter's eyes opened wide. "Why, say, you ought to put it on the market. It'd make a hit, I know it would."

"Well, there's something in that, too," mused the young man. "By the way, Henry, where did you tell me you came from?"

"Me, sir? I was born in Corry."

"Ah, yes," said the young man reflectively. "I understand."—Erie Dispatch.

Quailed Before the Test.

"General Nelson A. Miles," said an inventor, "used to be continually besieged by cranks with pneumatic rapid-firing guns, subterranean rifles, dirigible war balloons and such like martial inventions. The general would weed these cranks out with admirable speed.

"I sat in his office with him one day when a servant brought in a card.

"'Oh, send him in,' said Gen. Miles. 'This business won't take more than a minute or two.'

"So in came a wild-eyed, long-haired man, twisting his soft hat nervously in both hands.

"'General,' he said, 'I have here'—and he took out a small parcel—'a bullet-proof army coat. If the government would adopt this'—

"'Put it on. Put it on,' said Gen. Miles, and he rang the bell. The servant appeared as the inventor was getting into the coat.

"'Jones,' said the general, 'tell the captain of the guard to order one of his men to load his rifle with ball and cartridge and'—

"'Excuse me, general, I forgot something,' interrupted the inventor, and with a hunted look he disappeared."—Independent.

A Double Hit.

A good instance of a double reproof occurred in a Scottish church. A lad named Merryweather was very inattentive during the service, greatly to the annoyance of the minister. His father always composed himself for a nap directly the sermon was well under way, so that the boy could do as he liked without parental reproof. The minister could stand it no longer one Sunday, so he stopped suddenly in his sermon, and said: "John Merryweather, if you continue to act in such an unseemly manner during divine worship I shall tell your father. I would tell him now, but he happens to be asleep." From that day Merryweather senior and junior were model listeners.—Dundee Advertiser.

A Parker Anecdote.

Judge Parker is said to tell as a favorite story the tale of a young man in Savannah named Du Bois, who invited his sweetheart to take a buggy ride with him. The young woman had a very fetching lisp. When they reached a rather lonesome bit of road the young man announced:

"This is where you have to pay toll. The toll is either a kiss or a squeeze."

"Oh, Mr. Du Bois!" exclaimed his companion.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Everything Is Work.

Prof. Nicholas, the famous Cornell physicist, during recitation of a freshman class in natural philosophy, observed a tall, lanky youth in a rear seat, his head in a recumbent position, his body in a languid pose, his eyes half closed and his legs extended far out in an adjacent aisle. He was either asleep or about to lose consciousness.

"Mr. Fraser," said the great scientist, "you may retire."

The freshman opened his eyes slowly. He did not change his somnolent pose.

"Mr. Fraser, what is work?"

"Everything is work," was the drawling reply.

"What! Everything is work?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then, I take it, you would like me and the class to believe that this desk is work."

"Yes, sir," replied the youth wearily, "that desk is wood-work."—Philadelphia Record.

Vegetable Millinery.

At the recent unveiling in Ocean Grove of the bronze statue of the late Dr. E. H. Stokes, a Methodist minister said:

"I knew Mr. Stokes well, and one of the things I most admired in him was his simplicity, his modesty, his plainness. He hated affectation and vanity, even in women; and in a good-humored way he would often poke fun at the freakish fashions that come up from time to time in women's dress.

"I remember one summer, when the ladies' hats were very large and a great many cherries and beans and grapes and so on covered them. Dr. Stokes went about Ocean Grove telling a hot story.

"He said there came a knock at a man's door one morning, and the man answered it, and then called up stairs to his wife:

"'Ann, here is the girl with the vegetables.'

"But the wife, coming down stairs hastily, called as she descended:

"'Don't be silly. It's my new hat.'"—Buffalo Enquirer.

RECOLLECTIONS.

In memory I often look
Across the lapse of years
To where, still hanging on their hook,
I see my father's shears
Oh, those were hours for wit unmatched
When he those blades would spread
And leave all stiff and ruthly patched
My would-be curly head.

And when beyond the brink of youth
To infancy I pass,
To hardy-gut will forgive the truth—
To check a rising tear,
For now I see a slipper, warm
As from a foot fresh vanished,
And feel again the passion storm
I felt when I was spanked.

And as my reckless vision spreads
I see a schoolhouse door,
And some one, who, for his wickedness,
Stands out upon the floor.
And then, oh, me, I see again
That ruler, deftly planned,
To sting forth hands and jacks of pain
From my gutta-knuckled hand.

But worst of all those pictures drear
That follow childhood's wake,
Is that hour-completed potion queer
I took for stomach ache.
And never mind where memory leads
Or how my thoughts I stray,
I never taste those "pumpkin seeds"
They passed for me each year.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Gossip Picked Up at Pittsburgh Hotels and Stations.

The clutter of Pittsburgh young people in the numerous institutions of learning throughout the country has begun. In every fall season this has come to be an important phase of the September traffic of the railroads of the country. With the number of young people entering the preparatory schools, colleges and universities increasing each year—which fact has been particularly noticeable with Pittsburgh, despite the alleged more or less unenthusiastic and perverse sentiment of the prevalent spirit of the dead city center, the railroads are compelled to provide extra equipment, to some extension, to care for the travel of Young America.

And there is always a healthy, buoyant, wide-awake spirit to such travel, for the young people are either joining their gathering with their friends formed in the past couple of years, or are desirous of forming new acquaintances and getting the "college spirit" or, if they are going to their home over holidays, the parents and old boys behind, they endeavor, after smearing on the top, to make everything appear as though they were the smartest mortals on the earth. That melancholia agent, however, lies down after a week or two of the college or university life, when homesickness comes. The students who left last night were of all those classes, including the freshmen, whose ripe experience of sowing the world is always evidenced in his hearing. Within the next two weeks the principal travel to the colleges will be handled, while some of the university towns will not be even until early in October. Along with the latter will be the towns of young men and women in the professional schools, whose school year is somewhat shorter than the average college or university year. Many of these student bodies will travel in sections on special party tickets, while others travel as special college clubs. Nevertheless, the amount of this business makes it a patent interest for the railroads.

"Enough to Make a Preacher Swear."

It was just one of those little annoyances that the gateman at any large station have to endure, one of the dozen of times daily experience that would vex the ordinary mortal and would be "enough to make a preacher swear" as the saying goes. But the gateman upon whom this experience came last evening smiled afterward as cheerily as ever as he punched tickets and bargained to see everyone he knew going to New York or Philadelphia. A man of loud attire and of voluble action, if not of vocabulary, whose type has been known to threaten bodily failure at other stations by thinking he owns the earth and must make the gateman, whom he evidently considers subordinate, do his bidding and allow him to take up the space and time of a score of other anxious and waiting passengers, happened to pass through the gate. What him at the entrance was a friend, also of voluble voice. The latter wanted to go through the gate with his friend to the train, but both is not allowed by the rules, as the two men were told to an police language as the gateman might use.

"You're a sunday—that's what you are. What's your number business here? Come on, Joe," said the man who had his ticket punched. He endeavored to push the gateman aside and get his friend through the gate. But the gateman knew his business and told the man to step aside to allow the other passengers to pass through. As soon as the would pass through the gate the man outside would endeavor to make his way back through, but the gateman told him to go to the exit gate. He paid no attention to the gateman, and after three or four unsuccessful attempts made his way to the exit gate, and after getting back to the station lobby endeavored to have his friend go through another gate with him. But he was told to go to the same gate through which he had passed. After swearing at the railroad and all connected therewith, and saying a word to his friend, he passed through the gate again and went to the train, subjected eventually from the finding that there are other people who own a portion of old Mother Earth and the clothes that she wears.

STRENUOUS TIME TO BEGIN TODAY

Registration in Philadelphia to Be Conducted Under Heavy Police Guard.

BOTH SIDES READY FOR FIGHT

The political tug of war in municipal politics begins tomorrow and the pull will be steady until 10 o'clock Wednesday night when the assessors complete their two-day sitting. These are the two days fixed by law for the registration of voters not placed on the lists at the May assessment, and for striking off of those who are not entitled to a vote.

Much trouble is expected. Both sides say they are prepared for it and they jointly agree that the assessment will have an important bearing on the victory at the polls November 7. Every assessor must be at his polling place tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and sit until 3 in the afternoon, and from 6 to 9 p. m. At this time it is believed that the assessors will have enrolled practically all of the names found in the house to house canvass made by order of the Republican city committee.

These names, Judge Gordon, who represents Mayor Weaver, says must be stricken from the lists, regardless of the voters' eligibility, on the ground that they were not "personally registered." Even the fact that the voter, at his home or elsewhere, has authorized the assessor to place his name on the lists is to make no difference. If the assessor fails to strike off the name he is to be arrested.

Police Will Work Politics.

Leaders of the Republican organization declare that the assessors will be protected in their line of duty. Just how this promise is to be fulfilled remains to be seen. Mayor Weaver, who is assisting the City party in its fight to down the Republican organization, has, through Director Potter, ordered the police and detective bureaus to take a hand. This, with specials sworn in for the occasion, gives the "reformers" a force of about 2,800 officers, which will be reinforced by nearly as many more men representing the City party and the Democratic city committee. In evidence of the fact that Mayor Weaver has placed the police at the command of the City party leaders, the following letter of instructions to City party watchers is given:

1—Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock meet the police officer at the polling place and compare your list of names to be stricken off with his, so that they may be substantially the same and that voters who have simply been out of the division for their summer vacations may not be stricken from the list.

2—At 10 o'clock immediately demand to see the assessor's list, and copy therefrom all names that have been added since the May assessment. After 3 o'clock canvass these names with the officer.

3—On Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, in the presence of the officer, ask the assessor to strike from his list such of these names as have been found to be fictitious.

4—Act in conjunction with the officer at all times, and in the use of the slips that have been furnished you, it will be your duty to remain at the polling place and do the writing and the officer's duty to make any investigation of names that may be necessary.

Leaders Will Be on Hand.

Senator Penrose, Senator J. P. McNichol, Israel W. Durham and the other Republican leaders remained at the shore today. All will be on the firing line in the morning. Very little comment was heard on the open letter of Attorney H. C. Niles to J. Lee Plummer, Republican candidate for state treasurer. One state leader said:

"Niles has not been in a pleasant frame of mind since the state organization refused to indorse him for the superior court. He has taken his failure much to heart, and does not seem able to outlive his disappointment. His utterances would incline one to think Niles a man of revengeful disposition."

ROENIGK TO DISCLOSE STATE SECRET TODAY

Says That He Will Show How Administration Collects $10,000 from Corporations.

Chairman A. G. Roenigk promises to unfold the great mystery of how the city administration has collected $10,000 on revenues from the corporations. This solution of a close secret is to be made this afternoon at a meeting of the so-called "revenue committee" of councils.

Mr. Roenigk promises to make the disclosure even should a quorum of the committee not appear, as has frequently been the case whenever he has been anxious to have a meeting. It is stated, however, that a quorum this afternoon is pretty certain to appear, as Mr. Roenigk has some things to make known that might be helpful to the city administration and the Citizens party in the coming county election.

He says that about $10,000 has been collected from corporations since the "revenue committee" was born, and he will furnish a diagram this afternoon of the sources of this unexpected boon to the city treasury. He declined last night to disclose the secret, saying it would not be courteous to the other members of his committee.

Mr. Roenigk's refusal to make known what revenues have been collected and the sources, shows himself in reality to be the whole committee. He is the only member that knows what is being done. The other four members of the committee are supposed to be as ignorant of what is going on as the general public until they have a meeting and Mr. Roenigk enlightens them.

It is stated that Mr. Roenigk has a report prepared in which he heaps unstinted praise upon Director Bigelow, Mayor Hays, Controller Larkin and other officials of the administration.

Indications Point to a Largely Increased Enrollment for Fall-Winter Term.

The Pittsburgh public schools opened for the fall and winter term yesterday. Little was done beyond enrolling the pupils. Actual work after the summer vacation will begin today. A heavy increase in the enrollment is indicated.

The Allegheny schools will open today. The enrollment on the North Side is expected to reach 29,000, with 425 teachers. Most of the borough schools opened for the winter term yesterday morning.

All the school buildings of the city have been given more or less repair attention during the vacation period. Two new annexes for industrial work have been completed for the Eleventh ward school, and a new industrial annex for the Second ward school is under way. Electric lighting equipment has been placed in the Fourth ward building.

Fell Under His Wagon.

Henry Louderbach, a teamster, fell off his wagon in Water, near Smithfield street, yesterday afternoon and the wheels passed over his legs, but no bones were broken. He was removed to his home, No. 114 Dilworth street.

ALLEGHENY CONSTABLE "SASSES" "TED" JOHNSON; NOW HE'S SORRY

"Here, lock this man up. He swore out here on the corner and I heard him."

With this introduction Constable John Simon of Alderman Brinker's office, in the Twelfth ward, presented himself in Allegheny Central station last night and addressed Sergt. Mike Lynch. Simon had John Ingram, a young resident of Arch street, by the arm. Because he had no warrant, Lynch refused to lock the man up and Simon dragged his prisoner up the steps and out in front of city hall.

Sitting on the steps of the hall were a number of detectives and to them Ingrant appealed, declaring there was no reason for his arrest.

"Where are you going with that man?" asked Detective Tom Johnson.

"I'm going to take him out in the Twelfth ward and make information against him for disorderly conduct," replied Simon. As Brinker's office is about two miles from city hall, Johnson could not see either the wisdom or the right of Simon's plan, and said so. Then Johnson heard from Simon such an account of himself as he never heard before. Several hundred people gathered and after Simon had made a speech in a shrill voice Johnson indulged in some very excellent jiu-jitsu maneuvers. Before Simon recovered his breath he was behind the bars down in the cellar, with his prisoner occupying an adjacent coop. Late last night Simon was still wondering how it all happened so quickly and this morning he will talk it over with Magistrate Abernathey.

BIGELOW STOPS ALL METER WORK

Larkin Compels the Director to Go to Councils for New Ordinance.

UP TO THE CITY SOLICITOR

Director Bigelow has temporarily abandoned the installation of meters until such time as new legislation can be enacted by councils giving the city legal authority to proceed with the work. This result has been brought about by Controller Larkin, who is openly fighting the installation of the meters, and who has advised property owners to refuse to allow the city's plumbers to invade their premises with meters.

"I advise all not to allow the plumbers and workmen to enter their houses to set meters, and I have left word at my home that no workmen shall enter my house and tear up the cellar floor to set a meter. I don't want a meter, and I don't know what right the city has to say that I shall have one," said the controller yesterday.

The matter has been taken up by the city law department, at the request of Director Bigelow, and a conference will probably be held today by Assistant City Solicitor Thomas D. Carnahan with Controller Larkin and Assistant Controller Morrow. A new ordinance on meters may be introduced in councils next Monday.

The controller declares that, while ordinances have been enacted by councils authorizing the director of public works to purchase meters and authorizing the employment of meter men in the water bureau, there is no ordinance or other law in existence that authorizes the city officials to enter any residence or other private establishment and set meters.

Acting Under Old Law.

The water officials claim they have been acting under an old ordinance which gives the superintendent of the water bureau the right to enter the premises of a consumer to stop the waste of water, but this law does not grant him the right to install a meter. It provides the superintendent may repair pipes or fixtures, and that if he is denied admittance for this purpose the owner or occupant may be fined. Another section of the law provides for a fine of $5 to be placed on the consumer where water is wasted, but Controller Larkin and his assistant say they carefully examined every ordinance and law on the subject of water and failed to discover a line authorizing the installation of meters.

The present water schedule does not compel the consumer to have his water supply measured, and this is another argument used against the present introduction of meters. The water schedule gives the consumer the option of paying by meter or according to the number of spigots in the house. Until a new schedule is authorized by councils the consumer cannot be forced to install meters, and the controller claims that until such an ordinance is passed by councils Director Bigelow cannot compel consumers to have meters put in.

Getting Data for New Schedule.

Director Bigelow's intention in installing meters is not to compel consumers to pay for their water by measurement at present, as this cannot be done until meters are installed throughout the city, but his plan at present is to begin the installation of meters and to keep it up until meters are everywhere in the city by the time the filtration plant is completed. In the meantime he will have reports from a sufficient number of meters in every section of the city to form the basis of the new water rent schedule which will be adopted when the meters are all installed.

Director Bigelow is said to be much incensed at the controller for his meter crusade, and has not called at the controller's office since he returned from his vacation.

NEW LEGAL PARTNERSHIP.

George M. Hosack, of Pittsburgh, and Frank M. Eastman, of Harrisburg, Unite Corporation Practice.

Announcement was made yesterday of the formation of a new legal partnership by George M. Hosack, of the Pittsburgh bar, and Frank M. Eastman, of the Dauphin county bar, under the firm name of Hosack & Eastman. The purpose is the practice of corporation law in the offices of the auditor general, secretary of the commonwealth, attorney general and other state departments at Harrisburg. Offices have been opened in Harrisburg where Mr. Eastman will have charge of the business, Mr. Hosack continuing in his offices at Pittsburgh.

Mr. Hosack was a member of the state house of representatives during the sessions of 1897, 1899 and 1901, served on the corporations committee and was chairman of the ways and means committee. He is the author of much important corporation legislation. Mr. Eastman is one of the leaders of the Dauphin county bar, devoting himself almost exclusively to corporation practice. He is the author of "Private Corporations in Pennsylvania," a leading work on corporation law, and of "Taxation for State Purposes in Pennsylvania," as well as other works relating to corporations.

CLERGYMEN HOLD SESSION.

Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian Pastors Begin Their Fall Meetings.

The Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian ministerial associations held short sessions yesterday, being the only two organizations of clergymen to begin fall meetings. At the Presbyterian meeting a general discussion was held relative to the meeting of presbytery to be held in the First church today.

Methodist Episcopal clergymen heard a paper on "The Relations of the Church to Sociological Problems," read by the Rev. Earl J. Holtz. The conference committee of the Methodist Protestant church met in the church rooms, Fifth avenue, to examine candidates for admission into the conference. There were 16 applicants. The examinations will continue today.

VOLCANIC UPHEAVAL FRIGHTENS PEOPLE

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 4—News received today from the state of Michoacan, Mexico, says that a great volcanic upheaval threatened the city and the valley of San Lucas. People are fleeing in terror. The entire side of a precipice 200 feet square on Mt. Cerro Dolores suddenly took an upward movement and great masses of rock, broken loose by the upheaval, fell to the valley with a thundering noise. For 15 days the movement was plainly discernible, and it was accompanied by rumbling, subterranean noises.

FENDER TEST IS AGAIN DELAYED

Director Moore Says Inventor Lev Cannot Stand in Front of Moving Car.

TRIAL IS SET FOR FRIDAY

The fender test has again been postponed. The latest time set for the trial is Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Director Moore says the test was postponed at the request of Superintendent John Murphy of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, although Superintendent Murphy called up Mayor Hays by telephone yesterday and wanted to know what time the mayor and the director of public safety had set for the test.

Superintendent Murphy has said repeatedly that the time of holding the test was "up to" the mayor and the director. After Superintendent Murphy's talk with the mayor over the telephone it was announced by the mayor and Director Moore that the test had been delayed until Friday afternoon at the request of Superintendent Murphy. The director said Superintendent Murphy wanted more time to prepare for the test of about 20 different styles of fenders, whereas Director Moore had submitted but half a dozen for trial.

"We will have a fender," said Director Moore yesterday. The director was asked the cost of the Lev fender which is to be tested. He referred to a circular letter which stated that the Lev fender would cost $35 each and that the company agreed to post a forfeit of $7 on each fender ordered, for a period of 90 days, as proof of the company's claim that its fender could save the lives of at least 85 per cent of the people picked up.

"We don't care anything about the proposition to pay a forfeit," said the director. "Although the city does not care particularly about the price of the fenders, we do not want to force the street car company to pay a big price for a fender that is of no value. Twenty-five dollars is a good price to pay for a fender and I suppose it would require about 1,000 fenders to equip all the cars of the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

"Mr. Lev, the inventor of the fender, wants to stand in front of a car going at a fast speed and let his fender pick him up. I don't believe Superintendent Murphy will allow this to be done. He refused once before, stating that he would not take the risk of one of his cars injuring any person. Mr. Lev, however, offered to sign a waiver releasing the company from the payment of any damages, but Superintendent Murphy would not agree and Mr. Lev foolishly got angry and took his fender off the car. Mr. Murphy tells me he expects a great many people to witness the test."

The directors of the Pittsburgh board of trade, which have been meeting every Monday night for months to discuss the fender question, did not meet last night, although they had advertised a final meeting would be held last night to make arrangements for the test which was expected to take place this afternoon.

Proprietors and Visitors Caught in Disorderly Houses Not Severely Punished.

Frank Ambrose of No. 913 Webster avenue and Mary Pittino of No. 29 Tunnel street, charged with conducting disorderly houses, were each fined $50 by Magistrate Kirby at Central station yesterday. The houses of Ambrose and Pittino were raided on Sunday by the police. In the former nine men were captured, while 20 were arrested in the latter house. Twenty-eight visitors were each fined $1 and costs. One man who claimed he was working at the Pittino house, and the boy who was tending bar when the police entered, were discharged.

HAY FEVER

Two cents will prove that hay fever can be quickly stopped and cured.

Send a two-cent stamp to pay postage for a free sample of Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm—also Booklet on hay fever—to Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton, O.

"I must say that your Catarrh Balm is the only medicine that did me any good in hay fever and I have tried everything I heard of. I received benefit from the first application and now I can breathe as easily as I can in May or June—my head and nose are clear. I suffered with hay fever for 15 years, many nights could not lie down at all; then the heat of the day, with flying dust, would nearly set me crazy—in fact, life was not desirable under such circumstances. I am glad that I found your remedy. Will recommend your balm anywhere and everywhere."

James Gruensndyke.
Middletown, Ind. Sept. 7, 1903.

Under date of August 5, 1905, Mr. Gruensndyke writes: "I have not the least symptom of hay fever now. I can cut weeds and straw without fear from hay fever. $1,000 would not be any inducement to have hay fever as I had before your balm cured me two years ago."

ARE WORKING ON THE KNOWN FACTS

County Detectives Are Following Out Clues in Ryan Murder Mystery With Some Success.

SPECIAL AGENTS EXPECTED

The county detectives are closely following up the several leads in the mystery surrounding the death of Private Michael Ryan of company I, First United States infantry, and it is expected that some definite action will be taken within a few days.

By following out some of the circumstances surrounding the poisoning, as published in The Gazette, and with the assurance that the police were not interested in the case, the county sleuths have made encouraging progress even though handicapped by the lateness of their start.

The positions of the men at the bar in the saloon in which Ryan took his last drink, and the circumstances which would have made poisoning possible if such were the intent, were explained in yesterday's issue of The Gazette. These circumstances were confirmed yesterday by Privates Splain and Hurley who not only concurred with Private Britt, upon whose explanation the diagram shown in yesterday's paper was drawn, but also agreed on the point that a third civilian, as yet unnamed, was in the saloon on the night of the fatality.

Ryan's conversation as he stood at the bar with his companions, 20 minutes before he dropped dead, pertained to his plans for the trip to his relatives in New Jersey whom he was to visit the next day. He seemed in excellent spirits, was entirely sober, and his every action was directly opposite that of a man who might have been considering suicide.

The soldiers at the arsenal are expecting special investigators from the war department almost hourly, though it has always been the policy of the government in making its investigations to conduct them with as little publicity as possible.

In the absence of a police investigation it is believed that the government agents, should they arrive, will work the case in conjunction with the county authorities and permit them to make arrests or take any other direct action which might become necessary in the case. The only purpose of special agents, should they be ordered on the case, would be to secure a thorough investigation, and it is not believed that any attempt would be made by the government authorities to assume any of the functions which ordinarily belong to the county and city police.

Private John Dowd, whom it is presumed was the intended victim for the poison which killed Ryan, is now in Washington upon orders received here last week. The special reason for his removal as given in the department orders is that Dowd may be privileged to enter the war department hospital to undergo an operation for throat trouble. His call to Washington at this time will afford the department an opportunity of hearing full details concerning the death of Ryan and may suffice to give the authorities there a clear and complete insight into the case, for Dowd is well informed on all the known circumstances surrounding the mystery.

WATER DRENCHES LABORERS

Lively scenes were enacted in the borough of Millvale when the laborers employed by the West Penn railroad and the borough police almost got together yesterday. The railroad is trying to lay a siding on property claimed by the borough, and before the trouble occurred yesterday it had already destroyed a building claimed by the borough, and which, if not owned by the borough, belongs to the county.

The same methods which the Pennsylvania railroad people used to destroy the poles and wires, property of the Western Union Telegraph Company, a few years ago were used on this occasion. Then engines were hitched to telegraph poles, and poles and wires fell to the ground in an inextricable tangle. This time a locomotive was used with great effect.

On the Butler plank road in the borough there was on Sunday morning a little toll house, made necessary for the purpose for which it was intended by the county purchasing the plank road. On one side of the house are two trolley lines, on the other side are the tracks of the railroad company. At each end of the toll house, and prevented by it from meeting, are the tracks of a railroad siding, which the company wants to connect.

On Sunday the railroad company passed a wire cable around the toll house, hitched a locomotive to the cable and pulled the house to pieces. Although the borough authorities call this proceeding lawless they made no arrests. Encouraged by this inaction, a foreman, H. G. Rink, in the employ of the railroad, yesterday brought a gang of men to lay the siding on the site of the former toll house. The borough authorities were ready, not with warrants, but with a hose, coupled to a hydrant near by. Urged on by the foreman the laborers went to work to lay the track, and the water was turned on. Foreman Rink kept out of reach of the stream, but the laborers got the full benefit of it. Some were almost knocked down and all were thoroughly drenched.

Foreman Rink approached the police and told them they were wrong; that he and the laborers were working under orders; that if the orders were wrong the railroad authorities ought to be seen and the matter straightened out with them, but that under no circumstances ought the men to be interfered with. The police laughed at what they termed Rink's impudence, and asserted that the laws and the rights of the borough were superior to orders of the railroad company. Rink was not convinced, so the police turned the hose on him, the stream driving him down the embankment. He lined up among his Italians, as wet as they were. Another attempt to lay the track was made and the gang was again driven back. At last a pool of water was formed on the tracks and the men could not work without wading. All day and last night the police and their hose were on guard.

The borough solicitor, C. E. Theobald, says he will apply to the courts today for an injunction against the railroad company. It is feared that the railroad company may get in ahead of him by the usual method, that is, a restraining order that will prevent the borough from exercising its right until the tracks have been laid, after which a long legal contest will be necessary to dislodge the company.

TWO RIVAL FACTIONS CLASH AT OLD FORGE

Socialists and Catholics Have Been Fighting for Days and Burgess Is Frightened.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SCRANTON, PA., Sept. 4.—As a result of a clash on Sunday between a crowd attending a socialist meeting and another crowd coming from services in the Italian Catholic church, the borough of Old Forge was in an uproar all day, and tonight Burgess Hayes was thinking of calling on the sheriff for help, as both factions were marching up and down the streets making threats, one against the other.

A number have been injured as a result of clashes, and one man, Anthony Mulino, is dying from a stab wound under the right arm inflicted by Tony Salerno, one of the socialist adherents. Salerno has escaped. For two weeks past socialist agitators have been in the borough holding meetings, and have won many to their cause. An open air meeting was in progress near the Italian Catholic church when mass was over, and the Italians coming from church, seeing two Presbyterian missionaries, the Revs. Buggelli and Minutilla, on the platform with the socialist speakers began stoning and shooting at the assemblage.

Frank Pipi was struck on the head by a stone and seriously injured. Others were less seriously hurt. Fourteen warrants were issued today by the socialist leaders for the arrest of those implicated in the assault, and the serving of these warrants this afternoon started the trouble. At a late hour the borough police force had the situation well in hand, but the burgess was expecting every hour that there would be a general clash and that he would have to call on the sheriff for assistance.

"Buck" Wallace Held Up By a Park Policeman

Superintendent of Police Wallace was held prisoner by a park policeman in Schenley park for a few moments last evening and only released after he complied with the orders of his subordinate. Wallace and a police magistrate were driving through the park in a rig that was only lighted by the brilliancy of the occupants. But it wasn't the kind of light the city ordinances provide for. The officer, William Dowie, compelled Superintendent Wallace to stop and ordered him to light the carriage lamps. He recognized both men, but found in their identity no reason for a violation of the law. After a lengthy search a match was procured, the carriage lamps lighted and the superintendent of police and magistrate permitted to continue on their way.

Connellsville Man Makes His Own Account of Reward—Fayette County Court Opens.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

UNIONTOWN, PA., Sept. 4.—Two weeks more will see the completion of laying about 28 miles of pipe line from the reservoir near Dunbar to supply water to the different plants of the H. C. Frick Coke Company in the southern end of Fayette county. The work was begun last April and since then there has been an average of 350 men employed daily on the lines. Uniontown, Dunbar and nearby places can be supplied with water at any time there is a shortage. The water comes from the Youghiogheny river.

After finding a pocketbook which had been lost on North Gallatin avenue, the finder appropriated more than half of the money and mailed the remainder, $20, to the owner, John A. Whigel, whose name was on the papers in the pocketbook. Whigel says that the pocketbook contained nearly $50. When he received it through the mail it contained $20 and a note: "Found on my road to Connellsville via North Gallatin avenue. Will send same by mail less reward." The note was unsigned.

The Bessemer Coal & Coke Company of Pittsburgh will enlarge their plant at the Martin works at Jacobs creek near Greensboro, by the building of 50 new ovens to add to the present plant of 133 ovens.

A reunion of the Risy family was held Saturday at the home of Mrs. Sarah Murray of this place, who was the wife of the late Peter Sisy. Six of the seven children were present and altogether there were 95 in attendance. Mrs. Murray is 80 years of age.

So far no trace of the man has been found. The sender of the telegrams is said to be a commercial man whose home is in Washington. It is not known whether he sends the telegrams in a spirit of fun or whether his mind is unbalanced. It is said that the messages are well written and go into lengthy detail as to how the terms of the treaty should be arranged. One message sent to Oyster Bay is said to have cost the sender over $4.

NATIONAL GAMES TODAY.

Chicago at Exposition Park.
Brooklyn at Philadelphia.

The Pirates' contribution toward a proper celebration of Labor day, was a double victory over the Chicago team, their nearest rival for second place honors. The morning game, which was played before a crowd of 5,190, was won 3 to 2, and the afternoon contest, which was witnessed by 12,950 lovers of the game, ended 4 to 3 in favor of the locals. It was a great day for Clarke and his crew, and the crowds warmly cheered each player as he left the field.

The day was not an ideal one for baseball by any means, as there was a raw wind blowing across the playing field, which made the judging of fly balls rather a hard job. The teams were also somewhat handicapped in the morning game by the absence of the regular bats, which had gone astray on the way from Chicago, still the local club managed to scrape up a few which answered all purposes. The large crowd in the afternoon overflowed to the playing field, and made necessary a ground rule of a hit into the crowd being good for only two bases. Both games were played with but little wrangling and were treats for the spectators.

The morning contest was a pitchers' battle between Leever for the Pirates and Briggs for the visitors. It was a pretty game, and went to nine innings. There were many fine fielding plays, and the crowd had plenty of chance to cheer the players on both teams. This game was won by Wagner, who, in the tenth inning, drove the ball against the bleachers in left field for three bases and scored the winning run on a single to right by Brain. Chicago made a bold bid for victory in their half of the tenth, but good fielding and fine pitching prevented a run from being scored.

The visitors got away with the first run in the opening inning, when Slagle led off with a single, but was forced at second by Casey. Schulte drove the ball to right for two bases, scoring Casey. The Pirates evened the score in their half of the third, when Gibson drove the ball to left for three bases and scored on Leever's fly-out to Slagle. In the fourth Leever made a three-base wild throw on Maloney's grounder, and the latter reached home on a double to left by Evers. Gibson scored the Pirates' second run in the seventh, when he reached first on being hit by a pitched ball, was sacrificed to second, stole third, and scored on a wild throw by Kling. The winning run was scored by Wagner in the tenth.

The second game had Hillebrand and Brown as its pitchers, and the local man had by long odds the best of the battle, as he held Chicago to three hits and pitched fine ball in all but the sixth inning, when he gave a base on balls and hit a batsman, and those, with a misjudge by Clarke which allowed Schulte a two-base hit, and an error by Wagner, gave the visitors their three runs. In this inning only one hit was made, and had the locals played the game as it should have been played the Cubs would have been shut out.

The afternoon game had many fine plays to please the spectators, the most sensational of which was a catch by Leach in the fifth inning. Kling, who was at bat, started the ball on a line for the fence in middle field, and Leach started with the crack of the bat. While running with the ball Tommy stuck his left hand into the air and to the surprise of all pulled the ball down. Another clever play and fine display of headwork was contributed by Brain in the third inning. Slagle tried for a bunt, and as the ball rolled foul Slagle stepped running. Brain, however, instead of picking up the ball at once, allowed it to roll, and as it rolled into fair ground he picked up the ball and shot it to first, getting the out, much to the surprise of Slagle.

The Pirates took rather kindly to the delivery of Pitcher Brown and pounded him for ten safe hits, and would have scored double their number of runs but for the fast fielding on the part of the Cubs. This was shown in the seventh, when the first three batsmen reached base, and yet not a run was scored. The locals got away with their first run in the opening inning, when Ganley reached first on an error by Hoffman and got around on a sacrifice by Clarke and singles by Leach and Wagner.

There was nothing more doing in the run line for the locals until the fifth, which Ritchey opened by drawing a base on balls and was sacrificed to second by Phillips. A brand hit one down over second and by clever base-running turned a single into a two-bagger. At this important juncture Ganley was there with a neat single to right, which scored both runners. Wagner started the sixth with a base on balls and Howard followed for a sacrifice, but Brown fell while chasing the ball, and while on the ground foolishly tried to throw Brown out at first. The throw was wild, allowing Wagner to score the run that won the game.

One of the pleasing features for the spectators was the showing made by Ganley, the new outfielder, who not only made some clever catches, but was strong at bat, securing three hits, one of which brought home two of the Pirates' runs. Manager Chance made a hard try to even up the score in the second game, and in the ninth inning substituted himself at bat for Evers, but the best he could do was a fly to Leach. Lundgren, who was substituted for Brown, sent up a fly, which Ritchey took good care of, ending the game. The scores:

MAKING FINE RECORD.

Pirates Have Won 14 of Last 15 Games. New Pitcher Looks Like a Good One.

The Pirates have won 14 out of the last 15 games.

During the afternoon game Liefield, the Pirate's new pitcher, got out on the coaching lines when his former teammate, Ganley, was on the bases. Liefield is built on the same lines as Deacon Phillippe.

Pittsburgh and Chicago will today play off a game postponed from June 2. In the event of rain, the game will go over another day as Wednesday is an off day for both teams. Pittsburgh has 15 more games to play at Exposition park. New York has only eight to play at the Polo grounds.

Phillippe says he cannot win a Sunday game this year. Twice he has lost at Chicago in 1-0 games. In each instance Chicago scored the winning run on an error.

After today Chicago will be seen here only twice more this season. It is scheduled for two games in October. Pittsburgh does not have any more games to play at Chicago.

Cincinnati follows Chicago here. Manager Kelley expects to join his team here Thursday.

The Pittsburgh players have bought 50 tickets for the benefit to Manager Frank Selee at Chicago on September 28.

The catch made by Leach off Kling's bat in the fifth inning of the second game was the most sensational of the season and the spectators cheered Tommy all the way to the bench.

The Cubs put up a great article of ball playing in the eighth inning of the second game when with three runners on the bases and none out not a man was allowed to score. It took sharp fielding to accomplish the result.

"You're out" shouted Umpire Klem at Fred Clarke, as he crossed first base in the third inning of the second game, the play being very close. "I know it," retorted Clarke, to which the umpire replied, "Well, then, keep quiet." "You would have heard from me if I had thought different," yelled Clarke and Tommy Leach, who was at bat, laughed so heartily that he struck out.

Dave Brain's play on Slagle's bunt in the third inning of the second game when he kept hands off until the ball rolled into fair ground, then threw the runner out, was a beady bit of work.

CLEVER SCULLING IN THE FINAL REGATTA OF SEASON

New York and Baltimore Oarsmen Rowed a Dead Heat—Juvenal Wins the Senior Singles.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—The middle states regatta over the national course on the Schuylkill river, which finished the rowing season here, was one of the Labor day features of this city. Unfavorable weather during the morning resulted in a small attendance, but during the afternoon conditions improved and the crowd was larger. While interesting, the races were in no way sensational, with the exception of the senior singles' quarter-mile dash, and no particularly fast time was made. In the quarter-mile dash James B. Juvenal of the Pennsylvania Barge club won after a close contest. There was but one second's difference between the first and third oarsmen.

One of the most interesting events was the junior octuple race, which was won by the Harlem Rowing club of New York. It was the first race of its kind ever held in this city, and there was great rivalry between the winning club and the Vesper Boat club of this city. The local crew held the lead until near the finish, when the Harlem club spurted and won.

In the forenoon the intermediate singles resulted in a dead heat between William B. Klare of Baltimore and F. J. Koch of New York. The race was rowed in the afternoon and the New York man won easily. Summaries:

Series Still a Tie.

Two exciting games were played yesterday on W. W. P. grounds between the Ramblers and North Ends. The Ramblers took the morning game 8 to 6 and North End won the afternoon game 10 to 8. Those teams are after the 18-year-old championship and the series is now a tie. Afternoon score:

	R.	H.	E.
North Ends	0	6	2
Ramblers	1	1	0

Batteries—Rhinehart and Harper; Strachan, Mix and Fowler. Umpire—David.

Clever Shooting at Targets.

Twenty-one target experts took part in the Labor day shoot held by the East End Gun club yesterday. The wind was a bit high, still the scores made were good. The first prize, a fishing outfit, was won by Bower. The second prize, $5 in gold, was won by Lutz, and the third prize, a gun case, was won by Belsing.

Grand Circuit Races Held Over.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Sept. 4.—The grand circuit races were to have begun on the Charter Oak track at Hartford this afternoon with the Charter Oak $10,000 stake for 2:08 trotters on the card, but were postponed until tomorrow owing to a wet track.

TENNIS NOTES.

Play begins tomorrow at the Altoona Cricket club in the tennis championship doubles of Western Pennsylvania.

Local tennis experts are reminded that entries close September 9 with C. A. Childs, room 407, Arrott building, for the open tennis tournament for the championship in singles of Western Pennsylvania. The tournament will be held on the courts of the Pittsburgh Golf club.

CUSHMAN IS ON THE RUBBER

Braddock and Kent broke even yesterday in a double-header at Edgar Thomson park. Slow play and errors lost the first game for Braddock, but the home team got together in the afternoon and put up a fast contest. Cushman pitched, and while he was wild he was in something like his old-time form. He struck out seven men, and allowed but six hits. Thomas, the visiting pitcher, was a marvel of wildness and effectiveness at the same time. Only three hits were made off his delivery, and one of these was scratchy. He walked seven men by way of relaxation between times. McKeesport will play at Braddock today. Score of afternoon game:

SAILORS GO DOWN IN WILD WATERS

Ships Pound to Pieces in Fury of the Storm and Heroes Drown.

SHORES LINED WITH WRECK

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ASHLAND, WIS., Sept. 4.—So far as known tonight, all persons on board the wrecked steamer Sevona are safe, except seven members of the crew, who remained in the broken ship to allow 17 others to escape in the only two boats available for rescue. Those who are now thought to have perished are:

Capt. McDonald, First Mate Darwin, the second mate, name unknown, two wheelsmen and two sailors.

The bodies of Capt. McDonald and one of the sailors were washed ashore at Sand island beach this afternoon. The small boat containing five persons reached land safely today.

Miss Kate Spencer of Erie, Pa., speaking of her experiences, said:

"Early in the morning Capt. McDonald told us to dress and go aft, as the boat was leaking forward. The first engineer got us into the yawl boat, but the captain cried through the megaphone to hold out as long as possible. At 11 o'clock everything seemed to be broken up and we took to the yawl again. We piled into the boat, leaving seven men behind, after a heartrending farewell."

The ship Pretoria has been sunk off Outer island. Five men were drowned. The survivors were brought to Ashland tonight.

WASHBURN, WIS., Sept. 4.—The storm which has been raging on Lake Superior for 48 hours shows no signs of abating. The steamer Case and Barge, of the Gilchrist Transportation Company, arrived here today badly damaged. The captain reports that with three more hours in the storm the boat and all the crew would have been lost.

Mr. Thompson and a party of friends have just returned to Pittsburgh after taking a round trip to the Minnesota copper country on the Sevona. It was their original intention to have taken their outing on the trip the Sevona was making when she was wrecked, but a mixup in dates caused Mr. Thompson to decide to change his plans and give way to the party which has just been rescued from watery graves.

BROWN WILL NOT PAY SPECIAL POLICE SQUAD

Allegheny Controller Scores Administration for Disregard of Law Concerning Appointments.

Because the public safety officials of Allegheny have not complied with the law under which the city is governed, 20 men doing police duty on the North Side will not be paid today when the regular force get their warrants for August.

Controller James Brown has taken the stand that under the provisions of the charter act the appointment by Director Scandrett of 20 plain clothes men since July 1, is a violation of the director's sworn duty, and for this reason, Brown says, he is not authorized under the law to pay the men.

This puts a problem up to Director Scandrett and Mayor Wyman, for those who have policed the city in a gum shoe way for a month past will likely look to the chief of the department for their remuneration when they are informed that the controller does not recognize them as real city employes.

Controller Brown had his clerks at work on the payrolls yesterday and expects to pay off the police and firemen today. When asked if he was going to pay the "specials," recently appointed by Scandetrt, the controller said:

"There have been no certificates drawn for them."

DENIAL FROM TOAL.

McKeesport Lad Says He Was Induced by Another Boy to Make Confession.

The parents and other relatives of George Toal, the McKeesport lad who is said to have confessed to the coroner that he threw the stone that killed Alexander Campbell while on a Baltimore & Ohio train en route to the east a short time ago, deny that the boy is guilty, and intimate that he was frightened into a confession of something that he did not do.

Yesterday Mrs. Toal said that her son was in bed on the night the stone was thrown. Young Toal also denies that he threw the stone and said that he was anxious to get home and that he told the officers "yes" so they would let him go. He says that he was told to say "yes" by Harry Weigand, a 14-year-old boy of McKeesport, who was taken with Toal to the coroner's office. Toal declares Weigand said, "Tell them yes and they'll let us go home sooner."

Mrs. Toal says her son's mind is not too strong and that he could easily be led into admitting a crime that he did not commit.

MOTHER MURDERS BABY.

With Her Paramour She Hides the Little Body in a West Side Tenement Stairway.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Agnes Hyland was arrested today charged with the murder of her 2-year-old child, Gustave Denzer, a plumber, who lived with her, is also under arrest.

The child's body was found on the stairs of a tenement on the West Side. Later it was identified as that of Mrs. Hyland. The little one's skull was crushed, both legs broken and there were nine stab wounds in the face. The mother said Denzer objected to keeping the little one, having three of his own. They killed it, washed and dressed the body, and carried it to the West Side tenement and left it on the stairs. Denzer denies any part in the murder, but admits helping to dispose of the body.

RESCUERS KILL CHILD.

In Mobbing Motorman Whose Car Knocked Her Down, Car Is Started and Baby Crushed to Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Anna Schrinsheck, 2 years old, with her father and another man, was crossing Clinton street tonight when a car rolled the girl under the fender, where she lay crying, but apparently uninjured.

Before the motorman could step from the platform and lift the fender the crowd made a rush for him and he was forced against the controller, turning it around and putting the full current on. Instantly the car shot forward a distance of 200 feet, and the child's body was ground to pieces. The motorman was dragged from the car and almost beaten to death.

Fire Rages for Two Days.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 4.—The fire which broke out at Adrianople, Saturday, raged until Sunday, owing to lack of water. The greater part of each of the six quarters of the city was destroyed and the damage is estimated at $5,000,000, only about one-fourth of which is covered by insurance. Thousands of persons are homeless.

MUCH BUILDING ON SQUIRREL HILL

Over 30 Residences to Cost $500,000 Will Be Completed by January 1.

TWO GOOD EAST END SALES

Over 30 houses, the estimated cost of which will be nearly $500,000, are now in course of erection or will soon be started in the Squirrel Hill section. Little by little evidences of a building boom on the Hill have been accumulating this summer, until now there is assured one of the most healthy movements that has ever been seen in that aristocratic section. The houses started or planned range in cost from $7,000 to $60,000, and the fact that permits for four of these were taken out in a single day last week, shows that there will be no delay in making the Hill look lively.

A half-dozen costly residences are among those listed. Isaac Guckenheimer will have plans drawn shortly for a brick and stone residence to cost $60,000, to be erected on a site in Irwin avenue near Wightman street, which he bought lately. W. L. Stewart last week received a permit for a three-story residence to cost $60,000, to be located in Irwin avenue near Wightman street, and E. L. Messler was granted a permit for a $40,000 residence in Forbes street, near Irwin avenue, to be erected from plans by Architects Alden & Harlow. Samuel Hubley is building a stone residence in Bartlett street, near Shady avenue, at a cost of $20,000, and Mrs. Harriet A. Biggs will own a new house at Forbes and Wightman streets which is expected to cost at least $17,000.

Darlington Road a Favorite.

A number of the better residences are to be erected in Darlington road. James H. Thompson has under way two reception hall brick houses in that street, at the head of Denniston avenue, which will cost about $13,000 each. Robert Mattern is building an $11,000 brick house in Darlington road near Wightman street. The Pittsburgh Land Company has under way four reception hall brick houses on lots 50x120 feet each, which will face in Darlington road and will cost $8,500 each. Robert J. Coyle, Jr., has let the contract for two center-hall brick houses to cost $9,000, each in Darlington road between Shady and Denniston avenues.

William H. Whitfield, one of the first and most persistent Squirrel Hill builders, has plans prepared for four reception-hall brick houses on lots 50x130 feet, which he will build shortly in Douglass street, between Murray and Shady avenues. Henry C. Ross is building two $9,500 residences on the north side of Forbes street, between Shady and Denniston avenues. E. R. McAfee has taken out a permit for an $8,000 house at 6606 Northumberland avenue, Twenty-second ward, and Jacob Adolph's new residence on the west side of Beechwood boulevard, between Irwin avenue and Northumberland street, will cost $15,000. J. Hutchinson is building four $9,000 houses in a new street between Irwin avenue and Northumberland street. The Winters residence, now building in Northumberland street, will cost $12,000, and the Brooks house, in Marlborough street, between Shady and Murray avenues, will cost $15,000. Four good new houses are being built in Irwin avenue near Dallas avenue, and one $7,000 house is going up in Dalzell place near the Beechwood boulevard.

Two Costly Houses Change Owners.

Through the agency of Coyle Brothers two East End residences were sold yesterday for $21,000 and $20,000 respectfully. The first house is one of two center-hall brick residences which William H. Whitfield has nearly completed on the west side of Beechwood boulevard, between Irwin and Northumberland avenues. The houses stand on sites 57x200 feet, or a little over a fourth of an acre. They contain 13 rooms all finished in hardwood and two tile bathrooms. The buyer is a Pittsburgh business man who will occupy the place as a home. The house will be finished according to the wishes of the new owner, as will the one adjoining if for which a deal is now pending.

Francis T. F. Lovejoy was the owner of the other residence, which is located at 4737 Bayard street, Twentieth ward. It stands on a lot 100x132 feet, facing on the north side of the street, between Bidwell and Neville streets. The property adjoins the residence of M. B. Miller and J. C. Bole, and is nearly opposite the holdings of J. Dawson Callery, which run through to Ellsworth avenue. The Lovejoy house is a frame dwelling of 12 rooms, with modern improvements, and was purchased by Benjamin Dangerfield.

Ewing Company Pushes Out.

The usual holiday quiet of Labor day, which was evident in most brokers' offices yesterday, had no place in the quarters of the John K. Ewing Company, in the Columbia National Bank building, where a force of carpenters was tearing out partitions and making ready a larger suite of offices for the employes of the Union Realty Company, which was purchased by the first named concern last Saturday. Mr. Ewing secured an option on five additional offices yesterday morning, and these, with the suite his company now occupies, will give the larger company 10 good-sized office rooms and a private hall, all on the ninth floor. The new offices will be ready in a few days and it is expected that the Union Realty Company will be moved to them this week.

The purchase of the Union Realty will give the John K. Ewing Company one of the largest forces of any strictly real estate firm in the city. From the Union Realty there will come as salesmen, it is said, J. H. Palmer, Thomas Hare, B. Gooding and W. W. Walker. C. C. Weger, manager of its rent department, will be retained, and it is expected that these employes of the Union Realty will also be added: J. G. Barry, manager of the insurance department; E. W. McChesney, H. H. Bower, J. J. Durning, A. B. Crookston, G. M. Crookston, J. F. Bridge, H. S. Way, E. A. Aland and Misses K. McDonald and E. M. Platt, the last of whom has been with the Union Realty since its formation.

The present force of the Ewing company includes, besides Mr. Ewing, R. M. Winters, J. Guy McCandless, Cabel Brinton, John Armstrong, J. H. Wilson, B. J. Fricker, C. Livingstone, Harry L. Lightcap and Miss Anna Dodds. Mr. Ewing will have charge of the salesmen in the larger company; Mr. Wager will manage the rent department; Mr. Barry the insurance business; Mr. McCandless the mortgage business, and R. M. Winters will be general office superintendent.

An important feature of the purchase is that it includes the contracts signed four years ago by A. O. Detchon, J. H. Palmer and J. C. Ewing not to engage in the real estate business in Pittsburgh for a period of 10 years unless with the Union Realty Company. These contracts have six years yet to run, but their legality since the alliance with the Iron City Trust Company is questioned. The Union Realty will bring with it a rent list with over 2,000 landlords and an insurance department doing a large business with five well-known companies, in addition to its sales and mortgage departments. It is reported that A. O. Detchon will not go with the Ewing company but will still engage in the real estate business in this city.

Big Brewery for Allegheny.

The Lion Brewing Company, lately organized, will have plans completed in a few days for a big brewery to be erected in Allegheny at a cost of at least $500,000. T. J. Rafferty is promoting the scheme and a site has already been secured.

Among the contracts awarded the last few days are the following: Architects Rutan & Russell to the Henry Shenk Company for the five-story fireproof building which the Joseph Woodwell Company will erect at Wood street and Third avenue; Architect J. Lewis Beatty to R. J. Graham for the stone addition to the First Reformed Presbyterian church at Euclid avenue and Baum street, East End; the Pittsburgh Railways Company to the A. & S. Wilson Company for a car barn on the Mt. Washington tunnel line, and to Steele & Hall for a car barn at Frankstown avenue and Collier street.

John McSorley is taking sub estimates on the $80,000 fireproof apartment house to be erected at Alder and Emerson streets, from plans by Architect W. M. Waters of Chicago. The building will be four stories high and 80x120 feet in dimensions.

Architects Ernst & Hanselmann will take bids till September 12 on the St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church on Mt. Oliver, to cost about $50,000.

Architect Theodore K. Schaub of Allegheny is receiving estimates on a three-story brick and stone parochial school at Tinsbury avenue and Hamilton street for the Most Holy Name of Jesus church, to cost about $35,000.

Bids are being taken by Architect T. H. Scott on 12 brick houses to be built for Mrs. Caroline S. Paxton.

First Warehouse of Its Kind.

The warehouse which F. E. Schenck will build at 423-424 Penn avenue from plans by Architect C. M. Bartberger will be the first of its kind in the city, inasmuch as it will be strictly of reinforced concrete construction. There will be no steel frame and no brick or stone will be used in the walls. H. L. Keller has the contract for the building, which will be six stories high and 38x113 feet in size. It will cost about $57,000.

The Henry W. Oliver estate has leased to Charles Josephson the new storeroom at Liberty and Oliver avenues. Mr. Josephson will fit up the place as a first-class raincoat establishment.

Kelly street: George B. Kelly sold for Ada Martin to G. A. Emery, 6728 Kelly street, East End, a frame house on 27x135 feet, for $4,600.

Townsend street: The Aronson Realty Company sold for T. W. McQuaide of Mt. Vernon, Me., to Frank Crantz, 31 Townsend street, a 10-room house on a lot 26x100 feet, for $3,000. The house is said to rent for $300 a year.

Seven Cases of Typhoid Fever.

Seven cases of typhoid fever and three of scarlet fever were reported to the Pittsburgh bureau of health yesterday.

GEN. MILLER AND BRIDE ARRIVE AT PHILADELPHIA

Says His Marriage Is His Own Affair and Cannot Interest the Public.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—Maj.-Gen. Charles Miller, commander of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, arrived at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel this afternoon with his bride. When pressed by several newspaper men to tell when and where he was married, he said with a merry laugh:

"Boys, I have my wife and my certificate of marriage; more than that no one needs to know. My marriage was my own affair and can be of no interest to anyone outside of my family, and they all knew I was going to be married."

It had been announced in the newspapers of the country that the general would go to Paris and would be followed by Mrs. A. D. Bulen, a choir singer; that they would be married in that city by the author of "Simple Life," Charles Wagner. When asked if these plans were carried out, the general answered: "I will not tell you."

"We have been given to understand that a 10-months' residence in France was necessary before the marriage ceremony could be legally performed. Now, you are trying to profit by my experiences and as they cost me money to obtain I am going to let you all buy your own experience when you go abroad to be married."

"Then you were married abroad?"

"I did not say that I was."

"Were you married in New York yesterday?"

"I did not say so."

"Were you married in England?"

"I will tell you this much. In France a man cannot marry without the consent of his parents, so it is obvious that I was married in Paris, as both of my parents are dead."

It is apparent that his staff must have had information of his marriage and thus arranged for the dinner which will be tendered at the Bellevue-Stratford tomorrow evening. After a stay of a few days in this city the couple will go to Franklin where they will make their home.

CHARGED WITH COWARDICE.

Conduct of Members of Braddock Fire Department to Be Investigated by Council.

Members of the Braddock fire department were last night charged with cowardice and neglect of duty at a fire July 25 at the home of Louis Tagres in Braddock, when the three children of Tagres lost their lives.

At the meeting of the Braddock council last night Tagres filed charges against the members of the department who were at the fire, charging that they refused to go into the burning building after the children, and that Tagres himself was forced to rescue the children, who were so severely burned that they died.

Members of council immediately proposed a public investigation, which will be held by that body Thursday evening. The fire department, members and many witnesses of the fire will be called, and some sensational testimony is looked for.

FLAMES THREATEN AN ENTIRE CITY BLOCK

SCOTTDALE, PA., Sept. 4.—(Special.)—Fire broke out in the large furniture warehouse of Owens & Ferguson, on Shark street, this city, this evening and for nearly an hour it was thought that the entire block would be destroyed. The firemen were handicapped by bursting hose and the electric light wires, but after an hour's hard work the fire was under control and confined to the warehouse. The warehouse contained a large stock of furniture and undertaker's supplies and the loss will be about $10,000, covered partly by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Equitable Hearing Tomorrow.

Outing of Boggs & Buhl's Employes Biggest Ever Held.

Three special trains, starting from Pittsburgh, carried 1,800 people to Rock Point yesterday to attend the annual outing of Boggs & Buhl's employes. It was the biggest event of its kind ever held by the big department store of Allegheny. Favorable weather and perfect arrangements combined to make the affair successful in every particular.

During the day there were three ball games, foot races, sack races and pie-eating contests, which were witnessed by hundreds. Manager Daniel E. Brose acted as master of ceremonies and directed all the athletic events and awarded prizes to the winners. There were no accidents and no delays to mar the pleasure of anyone, and when the crowds returned last night the picnic was voted the best ever attended.

Councilman Kills Himself.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—John C. Stoger, aged 43, former city councilman, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head at his home. Mr. Stoger had suffered for a number of years from gastritis and it is believed that ill health caused him to end his life. He was a clerk in the office of Recorder of Deeds Vare.

TWO MORE PEOPLE ARE KILLED BY THE CARS

John V. Irwin, Descendant of Colonial Statesman, Becomes Victim of Traction Car.

John V. Irwin, aged 67, a lineal descendant of John Hart, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was killed by a fenderless traction car yesterday morning in Seventh avenue, West Homestead.

Irwin was a son of Capt. James Irwin, a former well known river captain. He was born in Elizabeth and lived on a farm in Mifflin township for 41 years and later moved to Hays borough. He was a former justice of the peace and was engaged in the contracting business. He is survived by his widow and three daughters, Mrs. S. S. Wimmer of Homestead, Mrs. Rebecca Caldwell of Hays borough and Miss Sadie Irwin at home, also by two sisters, Mrs. Emma Gemmill of Orrville, O., and Mrs. Rebecca Osborne of Erie, Pa.

William Heddick, aged 7, colored, of 6617 Bower street, was struck by a Liberty and Lincoln avenue car at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Lincoln avenue and Lowell street as he was attempting to cross the tracks. His right leg was cut off above the knee and he was internally injured. The traction company's emergency wagon took him to the Pittsburgh hospital, where he died two hours later.

John Beltz, aged 42, a laborer of 208 Rutherglen street, was killed early yesterday morning by a fall out of a third story window at his home. Beltz occupied the third floor, while John Arurier lived on the second floor. Arurier told the coroner he heard the man fall and on investigating found Beltz unconscious in the yard in the rear of the house.

After Labor day parade had passed over the downtown streets yesterday many people, mostly out-of-town visitors, called at the morgue to take a look at the bodies held there for identification. The crowd was so big the morgue attendants had to make the people form a line so that all would have a chance to inspect the building.

YOUNG GIRL A LIFE SAVER.

Winnie Neff of Coal Center Saves Lives of Two Playmates Who Fell in River.

COAL CENTER, PA., Sept. 4.—(Special.)—Little Winnie Neff of this place is receiving the congratulations of the entire town for saving the lives of two little girls near the Coal Center wharf last Friday. A number of children were playing in a skiff near the wharf when Rose Treddle, 12 years of age, fell into the water. Her sister jumped in after her, but neither of them could swim.

The other children, with the exception of Winnie Neff, became frightened and ran away from the scene. Little Miss Neff pushed the skiff out where the girls had gone under, and when they came up she grasped their clothing until help arrived. All of the girls are about 12 years of age, and Miss Neff modestly refuses to accept any credit for the work she did in saving the lives of her playmates.

Rolling Mill Victims Buried.

The funerals of three of the victims of last week's accident at the National rolling mill, McKeesport, took place yesterday, another victim having been buried on Saturday. The services over the remains of John Marquette of East Park way were held at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's German Roman Catholic church and were conducted by the Rev. Father Lawrence Boell. Superintendent J. B. Ayres of the rolling mill and a number of millmen attended. Ivan Rychel of Jerome street was buried from the Lithuanian church and Mike Pushka of Market street was buried from St. Nicholas' Greek Catholic church.

Brooks' case will come before the grand jury this week and it is thought that he will be tried next week.

COURT GRANTS MANY TRANSFERS

An Unlucky Thirteen Will Have to Wait Longer for Decisions.

AUDIT LIST IS CONFIRMED

Judge John D. Shafer handed down decisions yesterday morning in all but 13 of the applications for transfers of liquor licenses heard on saturday. The hearings were prolonged so far into the afternoon Saturday that the court had no time to render decisions on the last day of the term, as required, so made his decisions yesterday. These were handed up as Saturday, so that the records would be technically correct, but were not made public until nearly 12 o'clock yesterday. Eleven of the cases were held over, one case was withdrawn and one postponed.

The following transfers were held over: Anna Elizabeth Hard to Mrs. Annie Edna Adams, Nos. 66 and 68 Main street, Carnegie; Gaetano Corvado, from No. 940 Market avenue to No. 422 Ridge avenue, Northside; John W. Pool, from Penn avenue and Putnam street to No. 932 Homewood avenue, Crystal Water Company, No. 982 Fifth avenue, to Patrick J. Minahan, No. 1826 Fifth avenue, a wholesale house; Theodore Krumeler to Max Schwartz, No. 27 North Duquesne avenue, Duquesne; Herman Koontz, No. 729 Market street, McKeesport, to Olof Hallvarg; George Beaver, No. 174 Main street, Allegheny, to John J. Hedenschoer; Charles Rase, No. 2327 Brereton avenue, to Jacob and Isadore Reisch; Annie Lenhart, No. 900 Island avenue, McKees Rocks, to Chris Theiras; Peter Wall, No. 161 Dixon street, Homestead, to Michael J. McKay; Robert Moore, No. 1828 Second avenue, to Bernath Tarnay.

The application of Hulda Cramer, 391 Collins avenue, for transfer to John H. Eller, was withdrawn.

The hearing of the application for the transfer of John C. Sullivan, from No. 21 Braddock avenue, East Pittsburgh, to No. 611 Braddock avenue, was postponed.

All the other applications heard Saturday were granted.

Judges Over and Miller held a session of the Orphans' court long enough yesterday to confirm nisi the largest list of accounts ever filed for one audit list, about 427. The law requires the court to meet the first Monday of the month for the confirmation of accounts, and the judges met yesterday for this reason. After making the formal order the court adjourned. The accounts will become absolute in 10 days unless exceptions are filed. Today all the courts will be in session and the grand jury will convene. Many constables appeared at the court house yesterday to make their reports. All were told that the "parade" begins this morning.

A large number of sheriff's sales were advertised for yesterday, but the sheriff adjourned all those in which no person appeared.

A correspondent of The Gazette who took exception to the statement published Sunday that the transfers were not granted in mistakes. Judge Shafer stated last night that although the transfers bear the date of Saturday they were not granted until yesterday.

THE THREE RIVERS

At 9 o'clock last evening the marks on the gauge at the Davis Island dam indicated a stage of 3.1 feet and the river was stationary.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4.—At 6 p. m. the Ohio river was 9.4 feet and falling. Fly time for the upper part of the river has arrived in earnest. Several of the upper river packets running above Pomeroy have gone aground, and are in distress. The Keystone State of the Pomeroy and Cincinnati Packet Company, which left here last Tuesday, was forced to leave off her trip at Wheeling and reship by rail to other points. The river is falling very fast here and the prospect of the deep draft packets running for a time until the fall rises are very slim. Weather clear and cooler.

LOUISVILLE—River falling. In canal, 4.1 feet; on falls, 2.5 feet; below locks, 9.3 feet. Weather fair.

GREENSBORO—River 6 feet 6 inches and falling. Weather fair and cooler. Down Tuesday: Columbia, Up: Woodward.

PARKERSBURG—River 5 feet and falling. Weather clear and cool. The Virginia, which was stuck below Wheeling since last night, passed down at 1 p. m. for Cincinnati.

GALLIPOLIS—River 7 feet and stationary. Weather cloudy and pleasant.

Big Banks of New York.

There are six national banks in New York city which hold considerably more than half the total deposits of all the banks in the clearing house. To what extent their size is dependent upon the business derived from other banks and trust companies is disclosed in the official statements made last week to the comptroller of the currency. The six banks referred to are shown in the following table, which shows the amount of deposits due to other banks and trust companies and the amount of individual deposits subject to check:

DEPOSITS.	Banks and Trust Cos.	Individual.
National City	$ 96,802,500	$105,785,653
Commerce	96,527,493	60,697,833
First	59,210,047	44,382,650
Hanover	48,378,798	23,348,743
Park	30,292,057	34,593,284
Chase	8,645,073	11,172,171
Totals	$403,859,938	$277,180,334

The total deposits of the 42 national banks of New York city foot up $1,074,-647,523, and more than half this amount, or $574,067,786, is due to other banks and trust companies. When New York talks about furnishing funds to help the west and south move the crops, it really means that the banks and trust companies of the west and south draw upon their own deposits in the New York banks, just as an individual draws a check upon his account in his home bank. When the country draws upon its credits in New York, the New York banks call in loans, and the first to be called are the stock market operators. If the latter cannot borrow elsewhere on favorable terms, they sell a portion of their stocks, thus bringing about a reaction in the stock market. Such reactions are liable to occur when general business is most active and prosperous.

The Allis-Chalmers Report.

Considerable local interest is taken in the annual report of the Allis-Chalmers Company, because of the possible competition which that company will give the Westinghouse and General Electric companies. The termination of the fiscal year of the Allis-Chalmers has been changed from April 30 to June 30, which prevents exact comparisons between the report just made and the previous report. The report for the fiscal year ended June 30 last states that the capital stock remains the same as in the previous year, as follows: Authorized common stock, $25,000,000; authorized preferred stock, $25,000,000. The outstanding share capital is as follows: Common stock $19,820,000; preferred stock $16,150,-000; total amount outstanding $35,970,000. The net profits for the fiscal period ended June 30 last, after deducting all expense of manufacturing and selling and after making provision for the depreciation of buildings and machinery and for possible bad debts, amounted to $3,982 as compared with $952,624 in the fiscal year ended April 30, 1904. In the latter year dividends of 5¼ per cent were paid upon the preferred stock, amounting to $853,-125, leaving a surplus of $99,499. The consolidated balance sheet of June 30, 1905, as compared with April 30, 1904, is as follows:

Another New Brokerage Firm.

J. H. Emanuel, Jr., Grenville Parker and Samuel A. Walsh, Jr., as general partners, and Dean Sage and E. Dwight Church, Jr., as specials, have formed a co-partnership to date from September 5, under the firm name of Emanuel, Parker & Co., with offices at No. 15 Wall street, New York, for the purpose of conducting a general commission business in stocks and bonds, and dealing in investment securities. Mr. Emanuel until recently was connected with J. P. Morgan & Co., where for many years he had charge of the bond and syndicate department of that banking house. Mr. Parker was formerly with Estabrook & Co. of New York and Boston, in charge of their outside bond business. Mr. Walsh, who is the son of Samuel A. Walsh, the well-known stock market operator, is a member of the New York stock exchange, and will represent the firm on the floor of the exchange.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

No. 4 furnace of the Calumet and Arizona has been blown in and is smelting about 100 tons each of Duluth and Lake Superior mine ores, increasing daily, and will soon be taking 150 tons a day from each of these new mines. These are the second and third of the Cole group of mines to begin production. No. 5 furnace is arriving and under construction, and should be blown in before October 31. Before a year has passed this company should be operating no less than eight 200-ton furnaces and Bessemer converters to correspond. Four of these should be working on Calumet and Arizona ore, and one each on Lake Superior, Duluth, Pittsburgh and Junction.

Articles of incorporation of the Junction Development Company have been filed at Duluth, Minn. The capital stock is $3,000,000, of which all but $500,000 will be issued at the start. The company will begin business with $1,000,000 cash in the treasury. Its officers have not been elected, but will be the same as those of Calumet and Arizona. The Junction will radiate drifts from its shaft, and it is known that these drifts can all be found in ore running from 10 to 15 per cent copper. The company is now hoisting ore taken out in course of development.

L. B. Worthen of Tucson and Mayor Rose of Milwaukee, Wis., are at work on a proposition for the erection of a large custom smelter at Tucson, and have secured a subscription of $25,000 from Tucson citizens. This is all the encouragement they asked, and now say the project is sure to be carried through. There is much promising copper property near Tucson, especially to the south and southwest, in the Huachucas.

In Cochise county, Arizona, are 460 patented groups of mining claims, on which work is being done, but which are not yet mines, in the sense that they can pay for their work out of development, or that they are known to be more than merely promising. On all of these the territorial tax board has just made a raise of 1,500 per cent in valuation, which, if enforced, will put most of them out of business and on the delinquent tax rolls.

The Yavapai district is very active, more so than at any previous period of its history, and from all parts of it come the details of new work and additional exploration. The chief centers of activity are Hassayampa, Big Bug, Turkey Creek, Verde, Black Canyon, Copper Basin and Martinez. Most of the work under way today is underground, in development and exploration, and it is not in surface improvements, which is a great change for the better in methods of operation. At Jerome there is unusual quiet, except at the United Verde. Senator Clark's Iron King and Equator have closed down, ostensibly because the copper values have diminished, but really for another cause entirely. F. A. Heinze had an exploration there and he has closed, probably in the hope that Clark and Co. will assist the latter in his projects. Copper Chief, which was examined some time ago by Messrs. T. F. Cole, J. H. Gatson and D. E. Woodbridge of Minnesota, has been under option recently to others, but may not be sold if the adjoining Clark mines are closed.

The opinion is now general among well-posted mining men that the Chiricahua mining district is good only for concerns with ample capital, that the copper ores there are exceedingly cheap.

The Wolverine has called a 20-cent per share payment on its capital stock. The situation underground is encouraging, but no copper has been cut. A drift on the 500-foot level is working toward the recent find in Shattuck, but is still a long way therefrom. This drift is 1,200 feet long and ventilation is so bad that work is prosecuting slowly. This drift, started on the 500-foot level, is now 1,100 feet under the surface, on account of the steep mountain which it cuts. It is working toward porphyry intrusions in the large fault plane running from the center of the zone.

HOLIDAY CLOSES ALL THE LOCAL MARKETS

Elgin Announces No Change in Butter and This May Prove a Bargain Day.

The holiday closed all the local markets and consequently there were no changes in quotations and no business by which any idea of what the week will be could be formed. The Elgin board sent out the announcement that there would be no change in the price of butter this week, and other lines will await the condition of the market today. The day following a holiday is usually dull and this may prove a bargain occasion for many.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts of hay and grain yesterday were: Pennsylvania lines, 25 cars hay, 12 cars corn, 24 cars oats, 3 cars straw, 15 cars rye, 6 cars feed; Baltimore & Ohio railroad, 12 cars hay, 2 cars corn, 4 cars oats, 1 car straw; Lake Erie railroad, 4 cars oats, 2 cars corn, 14 cars hay, 1 car straw, 4 cars rye.

Receipts were heavy and there being no market there will be quite a stock on hand at the opening of the market today. Some changes in quotations will probably result although the outlook for the week is considered good.

Cattle.

Receipts were 165 cars, mostly common and medium grades. There are comparatively few good cattle coming in, the majority being grassers. These tend to head prices down as there is a surplus of that kind. Good cattle have no difficulty in bringing top prices, with a premium. The market yesterday was 10 to 25c lower. Quotations: Choice, 1,400 to 1,600 lbs, $5 @5 40; prime, 1,350 to 1,400 lbs, $5 15@5 30; good, 1,200 to 1,300 lbs, $4 90@5 10; tidy, 1,000 to 1,150 lbs, $4 50@4 75; fair to good, 1,000 to 1,150 lbs, $4 25@4 50; common to fair, 1,000 to 1,150 lbs, $3 60@4 10; common to fair heifers, $3 00@3 50; fat cows, $3 10@3 60; bulls, $2 00@3 40; good fresh cows and springers, $45@60; common to fair, $25@35.

In the Oil fields.

Reports from the lower south-west fields yesterday were very light. Very few completions were reported and none of any great importance. On Chartiers Fork, near Bowers, Church district, Wetzel county, the Wheeling Natural Gas Company met with a surprise when it drilled in the test on the Barber Neal farm deeper into the Gordon and found a new pay from which the well will produce in paying quantities a day.

Three-fourths of a mile northeast of Burton, on Chartiers Fork, the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company have completed and shot a test on the W. H. Maple farm and the hole has filled up 20 feet with tools. It will make a light producer.

In the Hundred district, Wetzel county, the South Penn company has drilled in test on the J. A. Harris farm through the Big Injun and found no oil or gas. It is now drilling in the Gordon. In the same district the same company's No. 4 on the McIntyre-Fitzsimmons is holding up at 6 barrels a day from the Gordon.

On Henry's Fork, Clay district, Ritchie county, test across the Calhoun county line, the Southern Oil Company has drilled its test on the J. Nutter farm through the Big Injun and found a show for oil. The well is now drilling in the Gordon. In the same district the same company's No. 4 on the McIntyre-Fitzsimmons is holding up at 6 barrels a day from the 3 lb sand.

ROADS LISTEN TO PITTSBURGHER

Orders Are Issued by Several Lines for Less Noise in Operations and at Terminals.

HIGH OFFICERS ARE IN TOWN

Recognizing the value of the argument made by a well-known Pennsylvania railroad operating man in an interview in this column some weeks ago that railroads should enforce rules to have less noise about the large railway terminals, a number of railroad companies have taken up this matter in a determined manner. As a consequence there is now a great improvement remarked by travelers, especially at night, where there had been yelling of arrival employes, ringing of engine bells and bumping of cars, quiet now reigns and the sleeping passengers are not awakened by the unnecessary noise that had become habitual through carelessness.

Among the roads that have taken up this subject are the Pennsylvania system over the entire route from New York to Chicago and St. Louis, the entire Baltimore & Ohio system, the Norfolk & Western railway, the Big Four route and several other of the large eastern roads and some of the western lines. Orders that are so worded as to need no other interpretation to the operating men than the plain expression of the order itself, have been posted on all of these systems at the terminals.

Some of the roads have gone a step farther to recognize the petitions of people living in the smaller towns along the roads, where whistling at night was often such as to cause annoyance unnecessarily to the residents. The latter action to lessen noise in railroad operations has been brought about by the towns and boroughs themselves in some instances, through action of the councilmanic bodies. One of the most recent actions of this kind has just been taken by Emlen, where unnecessary whistling or bell ringing, according to the ordinance, will place the railroad company, the engineer and the conductor subject to a fine of $10 each for each offense.

Too Busy for Convention Trip.

While there has always been much interest shown by the Pittsburgh district members of the American Association of Traveling Passenger Agents, it is improbable that there will be a representative from this district at the convention at Portland, September 12-15. The boys say that they are too busy just now to take time to go to Portland for the convention, although they would probably attend if the meeting place were at a convenient distance. The same excuse is given at other points, so the outlook for a large attendance is not encouraging to those in charge of the annual gathering. A special train will carry those from the eastern territory, using the Wisconsin Central to St. Paul, and the Northern Pacific and Great Northern roads to Butte and Spokane, where stops will be made. The convention will last four days. The party will go by steamer from Seattle to Victoria and will come eastward over the Canadian Pacific. L. W. Landman, general agent of the New York Central lines at Toledo, is secretary of the association, and has all arrangements in charge.

Heavy Travel of Labor Day.

Something of the heavy travel of Labor day to and from Pittsburgh is shown in the fact that in addition to all of the regular suburban trains that are run every week day there were a number of extra trains to accommodate special travel. While almost all of the business houses and offices downtown were closed and hence did not require the people employed to come to the offices, the trains on all the roads used by these people on other days were crowded full of Labor day travelers, the travel being heavier than on an ordinary week day. The Pennsylvania lines had one special train bearing a labor organization from Clifton. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie had a special train service from New Haven and Brownsville to Pittsburgh and thence to Woodland Beach park for Labor day, about 500 people going from this city. The company also had a special train from Pittsburgh to Youngstown and return, one from New Castle to Pittsburgh and return, one to Aliquippa park and one from Youngstown to this park.

Potter and Creighton Here.

George L. Potter, third vice president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, will arrive here this morning on train No. 9 from Baltimore and will spend the day in conference with General Superintendent Robert Finney and other officers of the operating department. Mr. Finney and Superintendent B. W. Duer had planned an inspection trip over the Wheeling & Pittsburgh branch of the Pittsburgh division, but this will be deferred.

George W. Creighton, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad, accompanied by his staff officers from Altoona, arrived in Pittsburgh last evening. The party came in over the West Penn division and were accompanied by Superintendent R. T. Morrow and Assistant Engineer J. C. Auten of the West Penn division. This is Mr. Creighton's first visit to Pittsburgh since he returned from Europe, where he spent the summer. After conferring on local matters this forenoon, the officers will go east over the main line.

Traveling Master Mechanic for Wabash.

An official circular issued by First Vice President B. A. Worthington of the Wabash system lines east of Toledo announces the appointment of M. E. Wells as traveling master mechanic of these lines, with such special duties as may be assigned to him. For the present he will have general supervision of the roundhouse service, the care of locomotive boilers on the road and at terminals, the character of the water supply, etc. His duties will be not to find fault or to criticize, but to assist all concerned in getting better results. He will report to Master Mechanic J. E. O'Hara, whose headquarters are at Norwalk, O.

Improvement at Coraopolis.

The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company has purchased a strip of property on the opposite side of the four-track line at the passenger station at Coraopolis. This property will be used to increase the passenger station facilities. An umbrella shed and small waiting room for northbound passengers will be provided. In order to give safe provisions for the use of this waiting room, the company will build a sub-grade crossing under the tracks from the passenger station to the proposed waiting room. The work will be started in the next few weeks.

Railroad Notes.

Thomas E. Sugate has been appointed assistant supervisor of division No. 16 on the Pennsylvania's Monongahela division.

The Baltimore & Ohio will erect a large grain dryer on its property at Locust Point, Baltimore, at a cost of about $40,000.

All of the railroad offices excepting those necessary to operation of trains and station ticket-selling were closed for Labor Day.

B. A. Worthington, first vice president of the Wabash lines east of Toledo, made an inspection of a portion of the system yesterday.

O. C. Castle, chief clerk to Superintendent B. W. Duer of the Pittsburgh division of the Baltimore & Ohio, has returned with his family from a vacation sojourn at Lakeside, O.

W. S. Hurley, general yardmaster of the Baltimore & Ohio Pittsburgh terminals, is acting as assistant station-master during the absence of C. A. Stewart, who is on vacation.

John E. Sautter, chief clerk to Superintendent R. T. Morrow of the West Penn division of the Pennsylvania, is enjoying a brief vacation with his wife and daughter at Atlantic City.

Brakeman Charles Bartels, who is temporarily employed as a clerk in the office of Yardmaster C. Donahoe at the Union station terminal, will marry a Knoxville young lady on Thursday.

Measurements for winter uniforms for the passenger conductors and trainmen of the Baltimore & Ohio's Pittsburgh system are being taken, as usual, by John A. Roman, representing Jacob Reed & Sons of Philadelphia.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul announces that a through service from Chicago to San Francisco, via the Clark line from Salt Lake City, will be established September 15. The Northwestern-Union Pacific has established a similar route.

C. L. Barnaby, assistant engineer maintenance of way of the Pennsylvania lines' Chicago terminal division, has been appointed engineer maintenance of way of the Southern division of the Grand Rapids & Indiana, vice B. H. Hudson, promoted to superintendent.

Henry Pout, passenger conductor on the Baltimore & Ohio lines west from Pittsburgh, has returned to duty after a brief vacation.

F. A. Butterworth, commercial agent of the Great Central route, is attending a meeting of the general agents of the system at Dayton, O., today.

James A. McNair, Pennsylvania system joint ticket agent at the Union station, announces the appointment of Clyde Freed as ticket seller at the Union station, vice W. E. Hall, who resigned to accept service with the Union Switch and Signal Company. Mr. Freed has been in the office at Pitcairn for the past three years.

General Superintendent of Transportation Arthur Hale will hold a conference with all car distributors and others in charge of car service of the Baltimore & Ohio system at Baltimore today. N. W. Lunn, assistant chief clerk to General Superintendent Robert Finney of the Pittsburgh system, and A. H. Gribben, car distributor of the Pittsburgh division, will attend from here.

Pennsylvania Railroad will operate dining car on their Seashore Express Sept. 9th, leaving Union Station at 8:15 a. m.

MUSICAL COMEDIES HAVE PREFERENCE

It Is This Style of Entertainment That the Theaters Excel in This Week.

MELODRAMA AND BURLESQUE

Labor day in the playhouses was marked in almost every instance by overflowing houses and generally well pleased audiences, the varied tastes of amusement seekers being fairly well met, though the intelligent, serious drama has as yet no capable representative on the local stage. Years ago a well-known and popular vaudeville team was Mills, Henshaw and Ten Broeck in comedy and burlesque acts. This week the three players, one of them a star, are in Pittsburgh. Mr. Mills at the Alvin in "The Duke of Duluth," and Henshaw and Ten Broeck leading members of the "Sho-Gun" company.

Alvin—"The Duke of Duluth."

By far the most beautiful and gorgeously appareled company and the largest chorus yet seen with that comedian surrounds Nat Wills in his new Broadhurst and Currie production at the Alvin, but Mr. Wills was better off in the way of a play with his "Son of Rest." George Broadhurst wrote the book of "The Duke of Duluth" and Max Witt composed most of the music, but the result is not distinguished in either case. The humor of the book is forced and the story is exceedingly like the musical comedy story of other days. An imaginary island, a king with a decree, several princesses, the visiting American and the Italian schemer, are ingredients that Mr. Broadhurst has worked into this farcical pie. It isn't a toothsome pie, so far as the cooking is concerned, but the producers have gone several paces ahead of any thing so far seen on the popular-priced stage in the matter of equipping the piece. It is a kaleidoscopic whirl of bright new costumes and pretty, fresh-faced girls. One chorus in particular, a bevy of stately girls in black and white, twirling correspondingly ornamented parasols, caused the female portion of the big audience to sit up with a gasp of astonishment. But this magnificence was seen all through the farce, both in the size and equipment of the ensemble effects. Nat Wills is several characters as the story progresses, but is, of course, best as the tramp, his specialty.

Wills sings some excellent songs, one of his best being a tribute to President Roosevelt. The cast is not a brilliant one, but does good service, the principals being Stanley Hawkins, Henry Norman, Robert Gibbs, Frank White, Frank Deardurff, Edith Decker, Hattie Arnold, Catharine Cali and Diva Maroida, while the Brooks sisters do some clever dancing.

Mr. Wills ought to have a better medium than this aimless, but highly "staccatoed" farce. He is humorous when he strikes his level and is a favorite in Pittsburgh, as was testified by the necessity forced upon him for a curtain speech, which was partly a new expression of thanks and partly an old story reapplied.

Nixon—"The Sho-Gun."

Spick and span, radiant in new costumes from tip to toe, George Ade and Gustav Luder's melodious musical satire, "The Sho-Gun," began a week's engagement at the Nixon yesterday with a special matinee. Both afternoon and evening large audiences witnessed the performances and laughed at Ade's continuous humor, which has a peculiarly effective flavor in this pretty comedy, while Gustav Luders has rarely written more colorful music than some of these "Sho-Gun" melodies. "Wisteria," "Your Honeymoon Will Last," the famous "Hiko Dance" and "The Games We Used To Play" are the most popular of the cluster of song gems, and each in its turn yesterday caught a whirlwind of applause. The production as a whole is prettier than it was last year, though the cast may not be quite so effective. Agnes Caine Brown lacks Christie McDonald's personality, but excels her in vocal beauty. Miss Brown sings the role of Hunni Bee, and is a charming little Korean picture. John E. Henshaw does quite the best work of his career as Spangle, the American promoter, and both his singing and humor kept the audience busy with applause. Hardly second is the work of Tom Leary as Hanki Pank, one of those convulsingly funny satires that Ade can create and which Leary plays with unctuous spirit. Mr. Weedon, the tenor of the company, was not in the cast owing to a severe attack of tonsilitis. The role of Tee To was sung by Douglas Ruthven, who will be remembered here with the Bostonians. The singer was excessively nervous, but he sang the role well. Miss Genevieve Day is another new comer in the cast, singing Once-Omi with fine vocal success, but failing to inject enough animation into the role. Isabel D'Armond, a pretty little singer who will be remembered as one of the "Babes in Toyland," made a vivacious and pleasing Moo-Zo May. The rest of the cast is thoroughly adequate and with its beautiful costumes and one of the best male and female choruses extant, "The Sho-Gun" forms an entertainment trifle of a high grade of excellence. Frank Darling directs the orchestra like the baton veteran that he is, with verve, understanding and brilliancy.

Empire—"A Wife's Secret."

"A Wife's Secret" is the dramatic offering at the Empire this week. Two large crowds gave the play an enthusiastic reception at the Labor day matinee and evening performance. It is new in Pittsburgh and as presented at the Empire town theater is deserving of a substantial measure of support. The story of a woman's honor, the separation of husband and wife and the old tale of a reconciliation by a child's wishes is embellished with many really pathetic scenes and an abundance of humor throughout. The sensational parts of the play are not made so prominent as to hide the less thrilling but more enjoyable features, and perhaps on this account the play as a whole was a genuine favorite last night. The play is well cast. Both Frederick Burt, the rector and husband of the heroine, Virginia Thornton, portray strong characters in a way that entitles them to much praise. No person who has been on the Empire stage for two years caught the humor of the crowd better than Mrs. Charles G. Craig, a buxom colored mammy, who a few years ago made a hit in "The Old Cross Roads," in a similar character. The minor parts are well taken care of and the work of little Petite Reenie, the child claimed by both father and mother, is much above the average of juvenile talent.

Bijou—"King of the Opium Ring."

A jumble of sensational scenes, most of which are entirely improbable, while some are impossible, constitute this Chinese-American sensational melodrama, as it is termed on the bills. That it is sensational of a kind none will deny, but as far as dramatic features they are few and far between. As a stage production, it is tawdry, being indifferently mounted, and poorly acted. About the most amusing feature is Wah Sing in the character of a Chinese highbinder, who stalks about the stage emulating his lines like a would-be actor trying to imitate Barrett or Keene in "Othello" or "Richard III." Opium joints, dives, robbers' dens and like vile places are plenty, with young girls, bad boys, villains and toughs to match. Among the specialties featured on the program is "The Tough Song and Dance," which is well named. The Herbert brothers, acrobats, present the human tower, that is remarkably clever, while their tumbling and other acts are quite satisfactory. The play, in spite of its lack of merit, either in matter or acting, drew packed houses yesterday.

Gayety—"Bon-Tons."

An offering above the ordinary in burlesque is that presented at the Gayety this week by Weber and Rush and their Bon-Ton company, under the management of Alexander D. Gorman. One or two features of originality accompany the usual burlesque mixture of the spectacular and musical. But there are pretty girls and costumes of more than customary orrateness, and the introductory review, "Americans in Spain," has a dash of comic opera about it that is pleasing. Tomas Hanlon reunions one of Johnstone Bennett in her impersonations of male characters. Keeler and Watson are interesting in return bowling the Hebrew and the actor, while the Mercens and Navarro trio are decidedly entertaining in gymnastic feats. Features of the bill for the week are the Berg girls, fresh from

Among the Clubs.

Regent Is Home.

Mrs. Robert T. Reineman, regent of the Dolly Madison chapter, United States Daughters of 1812, has returned from Canada, having spent several weeks at Beaumaris in the Muskoka lake region. While north Mrs. Reineman visited the site of the battle of Lundy's Lane, which is on Canadian territory, near Niagara Falls. The local chapter has been anxious to erect a monument or place a mark of some form on that battlefield to the American soldiers who fought there, has asked the co-operation of the state society, but because of the attitude of the Canadians it is uncertain whether any substantial memorial can be placed there.

The first meeting of the Dolly Madison chapter will be held on Monday, September 25, when plans for the chapter work during the coming year will be formulated. The daughters have decided to erect markers upon the graves of soldiers of the war of 1812 in this vicinity.

Parade Interferes With Meeting.

The Labor day parade interfered with the regular meeting of the Soho Settlement committee yesterday, the women being prevented by the stopping of the street cars from reaching the settlement house. The committee is preparing to inaugurate its fall work. Everett T. Johnson will soon begin instruction in choral work, the classes to be composed of young people between the ages of 15 and 25. The sewing class, in charge of Mrs. James C. Dick and Mrs. William Wilkinson, will continue, and the kitchengarden class will be resumed under the direction of Mrs. Dallas Albert. Mrs. George Porter and Mrs. Jane A. Hall are planning to conduct a mothers' department, with mothers' meetings and other features of interest to the mothers of the neighborhood. The circulating library was reopened September 1, to continue open each day in the week, it having been open for use only on certain days during July and August.

Will Plan for Fall Exhibit.

The first meeting of the Duquesne Ceramic club will be held next Monday, September 11. The secretary, Miss Marion Cowan, is expected home today from Ligonier, where she spent most of the summer. Arrangements will be made at this meeting for a display of the traveling exhibit of the National League of Mineral Painters, of which the local club is a member. It will come to Pittsburgh in November.

Postponed Until President Returns.

The next regular meeting of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Sterilized Milk and Ice Association has been postponed until the last Monday in September, when the president, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, is expected to have returned from Europe. The distributing station opened early in July in the chapel of the Fourth Avenue Baptist church has been very successful. Miss Martin, who is in charge, is daily distributing between 30 and 35 quarts of milk. Much of this is taken by foreigners. Circulars were printed early in the summer in the different languages of the people who live in the lower Herron Hill district, and circulated among the families, and the result has been a greater demand at that station than at any other established this season.

Arranging Fall Classes.

At a meeting of the East End Young Women's Christian association yesterday afternoon preliminary arrangements were made for the opening of the fall classes. Though the officers hope to enlarge the scope of the work of the association this season, no really new features will be introduced. The industrial school, which will comprise the cooking and sewing classes, and also a kindergarten for the little people, will not start until early in November. October 1, the work in physical culture will be commenced, and already there are many applications. Mrs. Frank Beard is chairman of this department. The gymnasium has a fine equipment. Classes will be limited to 30. Mrs. W. E. Dusen is in charge of the industrial work. The managers have also arranged to hold the annual dinner in November.

Interdenominational Conference.

The annual meeting of the Women's Interdenominational Missionary society will be held on Thursday, September 14, in the East End Cumberland Presbyterian church, Shady avenue, the Rev. John Royal Harris, pastor. The program is not yet announced, but among the speakers will be several women who have returned from foreign mission fields and who will speak of their own experiences and of the people among whom they have worked. This organization, of which Mrs. R. C. Wylie of Wilkinsburg is president, is composed of the women of all the Evangelical denominations in Allegheny county. The vice presidents include representatives of each denomination.

Entertaining Writer of Note.

Mrs. Christine Walton Dunlap of Corcoran street, Washington, D. C., librarian of the League of American Pen Women, is being entertained this week by Mrs. Andrew Easton at her home in Montgomery avenue, Allegheny. Mrs. Dunlap is a writer of note and an officer of one of the best known societies of women writers in the country, including in its membership newspaper women, authors and illustrators. Over half a dozen Pittsburgh women are members of the league, which makes its headquarters in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Easton is the state delegate for Western Pennsylvania.

Celebrate Tin Wedding.

AMBRIDGE, Sept. 4.—(Special.)—The tin wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wightman of Wallrose was celebrated this afternoon. The affair was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Wightman. About 25 guests came from Allegheny, Sewickley, Leetsdale and Bellevue. The trip from Leetsdale to Wallrose was made in tally-hos. Lunch was served on the lawn of the Wightman home. Many handsome presents were given.

People Coming and Going.

Miss Connelly will return to the city during the latter part of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Reilly will not be home until late this month.

Will Attend Ohio Wedding.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Glass of McClure avenue, Allegheny, who yesterday returned from their summer home near Oakdale, where they have been rusticating for the past six weeks, will leave on Thursday afternoon for New Waterford, O. That evening Dr. Glass will officiate at the wedding of Miss Mary Lenora Hauptman of that place and Christian G. Gerber, of Allegheny, which will be a home event at 6 o'clock. Miss Laura Whipple and Mr. Gerber's brother, Louis C. Gerber, will be the only attendants. After their wedding trip Mr. Gerber and his bride will be at home in Avalon, where they have announced at-home days for after September 15. The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of the Western University of Pennsylvania and is now following his profession, that of a civil engineer.

Preparing for Fair at Sewickley.

At a meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. at Sewickley yesterday officers for the coming year were elected and it was decided what part the auxiliary will take in the two days' fair to be held under the auspices of the Sewickley hospital auxiliary committees. Gormley; vice president, Mrs. Robert Wardrop; secretary, Mrs. P. P. Knapp; treasurer, Mrs. John Koch. Committee chairmen were chosen as follows: Social, Mrs. George Runkle; house, Mrs. George E. Clapp.

Mrs. Askin went up to North East on Saturday to accompany her daughter home. The latter has been spending the entire summer at that resort. Mr. Askin's sister, Miss Askin, returned from the same place last Monday.

Lambie-Shannon Rehearsal.

The rehearsal for the wedding of Miss Mary Seibert Lambie and Joseph Fleming Shannon took place last evening at the bride's home. It was preceded by a dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Lambie, the bride's parents, were host and hostess.

FINDING IS REVERSED IN CAPT. BAKER'S CASE

Still Undetermined Whether He Will Continue in Command of Fourteenth Regiment Company.

General orders have been issued from the division headquarters of the national guard reversing the finding of the court of inquiry in the case of Capt. Louis N. Baker of company D, Fourteenth regiment. Whether Capt. Baker will continue as captain of company D is an unsettled question.

Baker was elected last February and it is alleged that members of other companies participated in the election in his behalf. A court of inquiry found that his election was regular. In reversing the finding Assistant Adjutant General W. J. Elliott says that members of other companies were transferred from one company to another, "in order to control the election of a captain." He disapproves of this as contrary to law.

Lieut.-Col. J. Harry Corbett of the Fourteenth regiment said he did not think the reversal would leave any vacancy because Baker was unanimously elected captain at an election held in April, when there were no charges of irregularity. The lieutenant-colonel did not believe a new election would be made necessary.
